Day 5

Social Science

In regards to how linen was made in the colonial period, flax stalks had to age for several days or more to soften enough to pound and later hackle to sort the strands. Fibers in the stalk caused the flax to stretch when it was spun. As a result, weavers had to pull the fibers steadily to create an even thread.

Some weavers added water to threadwork in hopes of improving their weaving and discouraging tangles, usually with mixed results. Other weaving fibers such as cotton, wool, and angora provided warmth and equally unlimited mobility, while being affordable for their wearers.

What we generally think of as flax is a durable plant that can be used as both food and fabric. In essence, flax is a fiber that has highly nutritious seeds rich in omega-3 fatty acids and stalks that are used as a textile.
