Understanding Readers' Understanding Robert J. Tierney, Patricia L. Anders, Judy Nichols Mitchell, 2013-02-01 This collection features papers addressing current issues in reading comprehension from cognitive and linguistic perspectives. Organized into three sections the volume investigates text considerations and reader text interactions. Each paper presents a substantial and comprehensive review of theory and research related to cognition and reading comprehension.

Designing Tasks for the Communicative Classroom David Nunan, 1989-03-09 This book integrates recent research and practice in language teaching into a framework for analysing learning tasks. Fairness and Validation in Language Assessment Antony John Kunnan, 2000-10-12 Fairness of language tests and testing practices has been a concern among test developers and test users. The 19th annual Language Testing Research Colloquium held in 1997 in Florida brought this concern into focus. The papers in this volume offer an introduction to fairness and validation in the field of language assessment. Daily Reading Comprehension Evan-Moor Educational Publishers, 2010 Common Core Top Pick for Reading Literature and Informational Text. Handbook of Educational Psychology and Students with Special Needs Andrew J. Martin, Rayne A. Sperling, Kristie J. Newton, 2020-02-18 Handbook of Educational Psychology and Students with Special Needs provides educational and psychological researchers, practitioners, policy makers, and graduate students with critical expertise on the factors and processes relevant to learning for students with special needs. This includes students with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, other executive function difficulties, behavior and emotional disorders, autism spectrum disorder, intellectual disabilities, learning disabilities, dyslexia, language and communication difficulties, physical and sensory disabilities, and more. With the bulk of educational psychology focused on mainstream or typically developing learners, relatively little educational psychology theory, research, measurement, or practice has attended to students with special needs. As clearly demonstrated in this book, the factors and processes studied within educational psychology—motivation and engagement, cognition and neuroscience, social emotional development, instruction, home and school environments, and more—are vital to all learners, especially those at risk or disabled. Integrating guidance from the DSM 5 by the American Psychiatric Association and the International Classification of Diseases ICD 10 by the World Health Organization, this book synthesizes and builds on existing interdisciplinary research to establish a comprehensive case for effective psycho-educational theory, research, and practice that address learners with special needs. Twenty seven chapters by experts in the field are structured into three parts on diverse special needs categories, perspectives from major educational psychology theories and constructs relevant to special needs learning, development, and knowledge building.

The effect of hearing loss on neural processing

Jonathan E. Peelle, Arthur Wingfield, 2015-06-03 Efficient auditory processing requires the rapid integration of transient sensory inputs. This is exemplified in human speech perception in which long stretches of a complex acoustic signal are typically processed accurately and essentially in real time. Spoken language thus presents listeners auditory systems with a considerable challenge even when acoustic input is clear. However, auditory processing ability is frequently compromised due to congenital or acquired hearing loss or altered through background noise or assistive devices such as cochlear implants. How does loss of sensory fidelity impact neural processing efficiency and health? How does this ultimately influence behavior? This Research Topic explores the neural consequences of hearing loss including basic processing carried out in the auditory periphery, computations in subcortical nuclei and primary auditory cortex and higher level cognitive processes such as those involved in human speech perception. By pulling together data from a variety of disciplines and perspectives we gain a more complete picture of the acute and chronic consequences of hearing loss for neural functioning.
