The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys Robin Alexander, Christine Doddington, John Gray, Linda Hargreaves, Ruth Kershner, 2012-08-06 The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys is the outcome of the Cambridge Primary Review England's biggest enquiry into primary education for over forty years. Fully independent of government it was launched in 2006 to investigate the condition and future of primary education at a time of change and uncertainty and after two decades of almost uninterrupted reform. Ranging over ten broad themes and drawing on a vast array of evidence the Review published thirty one interim reports including twenty eight surveys of published research provoking media headlines and public debate before presenting its final report and recommendations. This book brings together the twenty eight research surveys specially commissioned from sixty five leading academics in the areas under scrutiny and now revised and updated to create what is probably the most comprehensive overview and evaluation of research in primary education yet published. A particular feature is the prominence given to international and comparative perspectives. With an introduction from Robin Alexander the Review's director the book is divided into eight sections covering children's lives and voices school home and community children's development learning diversity and needs aims values and contexts for primary education the structure and content of primary education outcomes standards and assessment in primary education teaching in primary schools structures and processes teaching in primary schools training development and workforce reform policy frameworks governance funding reform and quality assurance. Kennedy argues that there is much that disadvantaged schools can do to close the gap but this is more likely to occur when a research based approach to instruction with a dual emphasis on cognitive skills and motivation and engagement assessment and professional development is undertaken.
