The Battle Of Dienbienphu:

The Battle of Dienbienphu Jules Roy,1963      Dien Bien Phu, 1954 Peter A. Poole,1972-01-01 Describes the background events and aftermath of the fifty five day battle at Dien Bien Phu a village in North Vietnam which claimed nearly ten thousand lives      The Generalship Of General Henri E. Navarre During The Battle Of Dien Bien Phu Major Bruce H. Hupe,2015-11-06 This study examines the generalship of the French Commander in Chief in Indochina General Henri E Navarre during the battle of Dien Bien Phu in 1954 This thesis employs a model of generalship from the United States Army doctrinal publication Field Manual 22 103 Leadership and Command at Senior Levels to analyse the actions of General Navarre Through the application of the model this thesis tests whether American doctrine supports or refutes the judgment of history The conclusion reached is that the defeat of the French forces at the battle of Dien Bien Phu was largely due to a failure of senior level leadership on the part of General Henri E Navarre      Hell in a Very Small Place Bernard B.

Battle Of Dien Bien Phu, 1954, In The Indochina War André Geraque Kiffer,2024-10-09 The Battle of Dien Bien Phu in the Indochina War took place between French Union troops and Viet Minh forces between March 13 and May 7 1954 Originally Dien Bien Phu was to be a base for mobile units capable of deploying throughout the Lai Chau district with American M24 Chaffee light tanks from the Northwest Operational Group In the simulation through the Legion Wargames game Dien Bien Phu for the Vietnamese player I will apply the hypothesis of an operational strategy that prioritizes the teachings bequeathed by military engineer Vauban 1633 to 1707 For the French player I will apply two hypotheses adapting them to the context one at the strategic level namely the green light for the North American Operation Vulture and one in the field of tactics those practiced by the Americans in the Battle of Khe Sanh in 1968 in the Vietnam War      Hell in a Very Small Place Bernard B. Fall,1966 Afg rende slag Omringning Artilleribombardement      The Battle of Dien Bien Phu Patrick W. Shull,Army War College (U.S.),1999      The Battle of Dien Bien Phu Patrick W. Shull,1999 This strategy research project is a case study examination of the battle of Dien Bien Phu during the French Indochina War of 1946 to 1954 This battle was the decisive event of the war The paper focuses on French failure to craft a viable strategy for winning the war or this battle against their enemy the Vietnamese communists or Viet Minh French operational errors that helped ensure their defeat at Dien Bien Phu and the most important tactical mistake that the French made fighting the battle Studying the lessons learned from this battle and French failure at each level of war strategic operational and tactical will add to the professional understanding of future United States Army War College students and other interested military officers      Dien Bien Phu 1954 Martin Windrow,2021-08-19 A highly illustrated study of the battle at Dien Bien Phu the 56 day siege that eventually led to the surrender of the remaining French led forces this iconic battle provided the climax of the First Indochina War In late 1953 the seventh year of France s war against the Viet Minh insurgency in its colony of Vietnam the C in C General

Navarre was encouraged to plant an air ground base in the Thai Highlands at Dien Bien Phu to distract General Giap's Vietnamese People's Army from both Annam and the French northern heartland in the Red River Delta and to protect the Laotian border. Elite French paratroopers captured Dien Bien Phu which was reinforced between December 1953 and February 1954 with infantry and artillery, a squadron of tanks and one of fighter bombers to a strength of 10 000 men. Giap and the VPA General Staff accepted the challenge of a major positional battle through a total mobilization of national resources and with Chinese logistical help they assembled a siege army of 58 000 regular troops equipped for the first time with 105mm artillery and 37mm AA guns. Here author Martin Windrow describes how from their first assaults on 13 March 1954 the battle quickly developed into a dramatic 56 day Stalingrad in the jungle that drew the attention of the world.

The Generalship of General Henri E. Navarre During the Battle of Dien Bien Phu Bruce Hupe, 1994-06-03 The Battle of Dien Bien Phu was the climactic confrontation of the First Indochina War between French Union forces and committed Viet Minh revolutionaries. The battle occurred between March and May 1954 and ended in a disastrous French defeat that would influence negotiations over the future of Indochina. History has the defeat of the French forces at the battle of Dien Bien Phu due largely to the failure in the application of professional military skills by the Commander in Chief General Henri E. Navarre. In this work the author, a U.S. Army officer, analyzes the actions of General Navarre to determine if the judgment of history is supported.

Dien Bien Phu 1954 David Stone, 2018-10-26 The French strategy of seeking to establish a fortified base across the Viet Minh's route to and from Laos provoked an awesome struggle that lasted from November 1953 to May 1954. During this time Dien Bien Phu, surrounded by 2000 ft hills and thus difficult to resupply by air as the French had intended, became the scene of fearful contests between the locally savvy men of General Giap and the hapless French forces who, losing one strongpoint after another, were finally trapped in Dien Bien Phu garrison. The French lost the cream of their strategic reserve in the region and within months were agreeing to the independence of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. David Stone, a British Army officer of the post World War II era, leads the reader through the complex nature of this significant action.

A War of Logistics Charles R. Shrader, 2015-10-23 Following the French reoccupation of Indochina at the end of World War II, the pro-Communist Vietnamese nationalists or Viet Minh launched a grassroots insurgency that erupted into a full fledged war in 1949. After nearly ten years of savage combat, the western world was stunned when Viet Minh forces decisively defeated the French Union army at the battle of Dien Bien Phu in May 1954. Logistics dominated every aspect of the First Indochina War, dictating the objectives, the organization of forces, the timing and duration of the operations and even the final outcome. In A War of Logistics, Charles R. Shrader meticulously examines both French Union and Viet Minh logistical units during the period of active conventional warfare as well as external support provided to the French by the United States and to the Vietnamese by China. Although the Vietnamese had few advantages over their opponents, their military leaders brilliantly employed a highly committed network of soldiers and civilians outfitted to accommodate the challenging terrain on which they fought Drawing on extensive research such as declassified intelligence documents the reports of French participants and accounts by Viet Minh leaders including Vo Nguyen Giap and Ho Chi Minh A War of Logistics provides in depth coverage of the often ignored but critically important topic of logistics in modern military campaigns

Resupply at the Battle of Dien Bien Phu U. S. Army U.S. Army War College,2015-12-09 This is a case study examination of operations characterized as small separated unit operations with great strategic significance without the benefit of secure ground lines of communication linked to secure support bases The paper looks specifically at the battle of Dien Bien Phu during the French Indochina War of 1946 to 1954 and the battle of Khe Sanh during the second Indochina War in 1967 These battles had decisive strategic implications which affected the conduct of the war The paper focuses on the French failure at Dien Bien Phu to logistically support a viable strategy for winning the war or specifically this battle which in defeat undermined any effort of the French to win the war against the Vietminh French logistical errors in planning or lack of concern for the logistical aspect of the operation ensured their defeat These logistical shortfalls at Dien Bien Phu provided an opportunity for the United States Military to learn from this operation and incorporate the lessons learned into future applications of airborne operations and training The standard of measurement in determining if the United States learned from the logistical shortfalls at Dien Bien Phu began with the support effort at Khe Sanh and in the Airborne operations conducted by the United States since Khe Sanh Studying the lessons of these two battles and their impact on national strategy are applicable to Army Transformation and will add to the professional growth and understanding of future United States Army War College students and other interested military officers and strategists
