Futures: Imagining Socioecological Transformation Bruce Willems-Braun, 2018-02-02

Futures: Imagining Socioecological Transformation brings together leading scholars to explore how we might know, enact, and struggle for the conjoined social and ecological transformations we need to achieve just and sustainable futures. The question of transformation and how it might be achieved is explored across a variety of topics and geographical sites and through heterodox analytical and theoretical approaches in a collective effort to move beyond a form of critique that hands down judgements to one that brings new ideas and new possibilities to life. Chapters are lively and original engagements with concrete situations that sparkle with creativity. Together they add up to an impressive study of how to live and what to struggle for in the complex socioecological landscapes of the Anthropocene. This book was previously published as a special issue of the Annals of the Association of American Geographers.

Auto/Biography across the Americas Ricia A. Chansky, 2016-08-05

Auto-biographical narratives of the Americas are marked by the underlying themes of movement and belonging. This collection proposes that the impact of the historic or contemporary movement of peoples to and from the Americas, whether chosen or forced, motivates the ways in which identities are constructed in this contested space. Such movement results in a cyclical quest to belong and to understand belonging that reverberates through narratives of the Americas. The volume brings together essays written from diverse national, cultural, linguistic, and disciplinary perspectives to trace these transnational motifs in life writing across the Americas. Drawing on international scholars from the seemingly disparate regions of the Americas (North America, the Caribbean, and Latin America), this book extends critical theories of life writing beyond limiting national boundaries. The scholarship included approaches narrative inquiry from the fields of literature, linguistics, history, art history, sociology, anthropology, political science, pedagogy, gender studies, critical race studies, and indigenous studies. As a whole, this volume advances discourse in auto biography studies life writing and identity studies by locating transnational themes in narratives of the Americas and placing them in international and interdisciplinary conversations Discourses of the Arab Revolutions in Media and Politics Stefanie Ullmann, 2021-08-23 Drawing on approaches from critical discourse analysis corpus linguistics and cognitive linguistics this book critically examines metaphorical language used in global media coverage and political statements on the events of the Arab Spring The volume begins by summarising key events of the Arab Spring tracing the development of protests from Tunisia and Egypt to Libya and Syria as well as the wider impact on the region Ullmann builds on this foundation to lay out the theoretical frameworks to be applied to an extensive corpus of natural language and actual discourse highlighting Western Middle Eastern and North African perspectives which integrate theoretical work on metaphor blending theory and semantic prosodies Methodological considerations on corpus selection and different conceptualisations of politics and mass media generally and across countries are discussed with the final chapters outlining the overarching themes across metaphors in the corpus and how these metaphors were ultimately framed in the mass media and political landscape This book will be of particular interest to students and scholars interested in critical discourse analysis language and politics and corpus linguistics
