Kosovo and Serbia Leandrit I. Mehmeti, Branislav Radeljic, 2017-06-17 Azan on the Moon is an in depth anthropological study of people's lives along the Pamir Highway in eastern Tajikistan. Constructed in the 1930s in rugged high altitude terrain the road fundamentally altered the material and social fabric of this former Soviet outpost on the border with Afghanistan and China. The highway initially brought sentiments of disconnection and hardship followed by Soviet modernization and development and ultimately a sense of distinction from bordering countries and urban centers that continues to this day. Based on extensive fieldwork and through an analysis of construction mobility technology media development Islam and the state Till Mostowlansky shows how ideas of modernity are both challenged and reinforced in contemporary Tajikistan. In the wake of China's rise in Central Asia people along the Pamir Highway strive to reconcile a modern future with a modern past. Weaving together the road a population and a region Azan on the Moon presents a rich ethnography of global connections. Cold War Anthropology David H. Price, 2016-03-26 David H. Price uses information from CIA, FBI and military records to map the connections between academia and the strategic use of anthropological research to further the goals of the U.S. military and outline the major influence the American security state has had on the field of anthropology.

Internally Displaced Persons and International Refugee Law Bríd Ní Ghráinne, 2022-03-15 Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) are persons who have been forced to leave their places of residence as a result of armed conflict, violence, human rights violations or natural or human-made disasters but who have not crossed an international border. There are about 55 million IDPs in the world today, outnumbering refugees by roughly 2:1. Although IDPs and refugees have similar wants, needs and fears, IDPs have traditionally been seen as a domestic issue and the international legal and institutional framework of IDP protection is still in its relative infancy. This book explores to what extent the protection of IDPs complements or conflicts with international refugee law. Three questions form the core of the book's analysis: What is the legal and normative relationship between IDPs and refugees? To what extent is an individual's real risk of internal displacement in their country of origin relevant to the qualification and cessation of refugee status? And to what extent is the availability of IDP protection measures an alternative to asylum? It argues that the IDP protection framework does not as a matter of law undermine refugee protection. The availability of protection within a country of origin cannot be a substitute for granting refugee status unless it constitutes effective protection from persecution and there is no real risk of refoulement. The book concludes by identifying current and future challenges in the relationship between IDPs and refugees, illustrating the overall impact and importance of the findings of the research and setting out questions for future research.

Human Relations Commissions Valerie Martinez-Ebers, Brian Calfano, 2020-09-08 During the 1950s, amid increased attention to the problems facing cities such as racial disparities in housing, education and economic conditions, tense community-police relations and underrepresentation of minority groups, local governments developed an interest in human relations. In the wake of the shocking 1965 Watts uprising a new authority was created the Los Angeles City Human Relations Commission Today such commissions exist all over the United States charged with addressing such tasks as fighting racial discrimination and improving fair housing access Brian Calfano and Valerie Martinez Ebers examine the history and current efforts of human relations commissions in promoting positive intergroup outcomes and enforcing antidiscrimination laws Drawing on a wide range of theories and methods from political science social psychology and public administration they assess policy approaches successes and failures in four cities The book sheds light on the advantages and disadvantages of different commission types and considers the stresses and expectations placed on commission staff in carrying out difficult agendas in highly charged political contexts Calfano and Martinez Ebers suggest that the path to full inclusion is fraught with complications but that human rights commissions provide guidance as to how disparate groups can be brought together to forge a common purpose The first book to examine these widely occurring yet understudied political bodies Human Relations Commissions is relevant to a range of urban policy issues of interest to both academics and practitioners
