The Disentanglement Of Populations Migration Expulsion And Displacement In Postwar Europe 1944 49:

The Disentanglement of Populations J. Reinisch,E. White,2011-01-26 An examination of population movements both forced and voluntary within the broader context of Europe in the aftermath of the Second World War in both Western and Eastern Europe The authors bring to life problems of war and post war chaos and assess lasting social political and demographic consequences Europe's Postwar Periods - 1989, 1945, 1918 Martin Conway,Pieter Lagrou,Henry Rousso,2018-12-13 This book brings together world renowned scholars from all over Europe to analyse how successive Europes have been constructed in the wake of the key conflicts of the period the Cold War and the two World Wars By regressively tracing Europe s path back to these pivotal moments as part of a unique methodology Europe s Postwar Periods 1989 1945 1918 reveals the defining characteristics of these postwar periods and integrates the changes that followed 1989 into a more substantial historical perspective The author team address the crucial themes in recent European history on a chapter by chapter basis that gives comprehensive coverage to the whole of the European region for topics such as borders states empires democracy justice markets and futures The volume highlights the fact that Europe was made less by wars than is commonly thought and more by the nature of the settlements international national political economic and social that followed the two World Wars and the Cold War It is an important innovative text for all students and scholars of 20th century European history

Return to the Motherland Seth F. Bernstein,2023-02-15 Return to the Motherland follows those who were displaced to the Third Reich back to the Soviet Union after the victory over Germany At the end of World War II millions of people from Soviet lands were living as refugees outside the borders of the USSR Most had been forced laborers and prisoners of war deported to the Third Reich to work as racial inferiors in a crushing environment Seth Bernstein reveals the secret history of repatriation the details of the journey and the new identities prospects and dangers for migrants that were created by the tumult of war He uses official and personal sources from declassified holdings in post Soviet archives more than one hundred oral history interviews and transnational archival material Most notably he makes extensive use of secret police files declassified only after the Maidan Revolution in Ukraine in 2014 The stories described in Return to the Motherland reveal not only how the USSR grappled with the aftermath of war but also the universality of Stalinism s refugee crisis While arrest was not guaranteed persecution was ubiquitous Within Soviet society returnees met with a cold reception that demanded hard labor as payment for perceived disloyalty soldiers perpetrated rape against returning Soviet women and ordinary people avoided contact with repatriates fearing arrest as traitors and spies As Bernstein describes Soviet displacement presented a challenge to social order and the opportunity to rebuild the country as a great power after a devastating war The Making of the Modern Refugee Peter Gatrell,2013-09-12 The Making of the Modern Refugee proposes a new approach to a fundamental aspect of twentieth century history by bringing the causes consequences and meanings of global population displacement within a single frame Its broad chronological and geographical coverage extending from Europe and the Middle East to South Asia South East Asia and sub Saharan Africa makes it possible to compare crises and how they were addressed Wars revolutions and state formation are invoked as the main causal explanations of displacement and are considered alongside the emergence of a twentieth century refugee regime linking governmental practices professional expertise and humanitarian relief efforts How and for whom did refugees become a problem for organizations such as the League of Nations and UNHCR and for non governmental organizations NGOs What solutions were entertained and implemented and why What were the implications for refugees These questions invite us to consider how refugees engaged with the myriad ramifications of enforced migration and thus the significance that they attached to the places they left behind to their journeys and destinations in short how refugees helped interpret and fashioned their own history The Making of the Modern Refugee rests upon scholarship from several disciplines and draws upon oral testimony eye witness accounts and cultural production as well as extensive unpublished source material The Sage Encyclopedia of Refugee Studies Yen Le Espiritu,2025-09-01 Refugees and displacement are defining issues of the 21st century with over 70 million asylum seekers refugees and stateless individuals forced from their homes as of 2020 Every two seconds one person is forcibly displaced due to climate change global epidemics and ongoing conflicts The SAGE Encyclopedia of Refugee Studies edited by members of The Critical Refugee Studies Collective serves as a vital and comprehensive resource for understanding the historical political and cultural dimensions of displacement Featuring over 250 authoritative articles this landmark reference work is organized into three key themes law politics and policy humanitarianism and humanitarian organizations and media culture and storytelling Drawing from disciplines such as migration studies Indigenous studies critical race studies environmental studies sociology political science law anthropology and the arts this encyclopedia critically examines refugee issues in relation to imperialism racism patriarchy and militarism Beyond academic analysis The SAGE Encyclopedia of Refugee Studies centers refugee voices through narratives first person accounts and visual storytelling highlighting the lived experiences communities and creative expressions of displaced individuals This essential resource is invaluable for scholars educators policymakers community based organizations and refugees themselves People on the Move Pertti Ahonen,Gustavo Corni,Jerzy Kochanowski,Rainer Schulze,Tamás Stark,Barbara Stelzl-Marx,2020-08-22 Europe has a long history of state led population displacement on ethnic grounds The nationalist argument of ethnic homogeneity has been a crucial factor in the mapping of the continent At no time has this been more the case than during and after the Second World War Both under the aggressive expansionism of the Third Reich and after Germany's defeat millions were brutally forced out of their homelands Presenting a history from the top as well as the bottom People on the Move reconstructs the complex map of forced population displacements that took place across Europe during and immediately after the Second World War Destination Elsewhere Ruth Balint,2021-11-15 In this unique history from below Destination Elsewhere chronicles encounters between displaced persons in Europe and the Allied agencies who were tasked with caring for them after the Second World War. The struggle to define who was a displaced person and who was not was a subject of intense debate and deliberation among humanitarians, international law experts, immigration planners, and governments. What has not adequately been recognized is that displaced persons also actively participated in this emerging refugee conversation. Displaced persons endured war displacement and resettlement, but these experiences were not defined by passivity and speechlessness. Instead, they spoke back, creating a dialogue that in turn helped shape the modern idea of the refugee. As Ruth Balint shows, what made a good or convincing story at the time tells us much about the circulation of ideas about the war, the Holocaust, and the Jews. Those stories depict the emerging moral and legal distinction between economic migrants and political refugees. They tell us about the experiences of women and children in the face of new psychological and political interventions into the family. Stories from displaced persons also tell us something about the enduring myth of the new world for people who longed to leave the old. Balint focuses on those persons whose storytelling skills became a major strategy for survival and escape out of the displaced persons camps and out of Europe. Their stories are brought to life in Destination Elsewhere, alongside a new history of immigration, statelessness, and the institution of the postwar family.

In War's Wake Gerard Daniel Cohen, 2011-10-28

After WWII Europe was awash in refugees. Never in modern times had so many been so destitute and displaced. No longer subjects of a single nation state, this motley group of enemies and victims consisted of Jewish survivors of the Holocaust, ex Soviet POWs, ex forced laborers in the Third Reich, legions of people who fled the advancing Red Army, and many thousands uprooted by the sheer violence of the war. This book argues that postwar international relief operations went beyond their stated goal of civilian rehabilitation and contributed to the rise of a new internationalism setting the terms on which future displaced persons would be treated by nations and NGOs.

The German exodus G.C. Paikert, 2012-12-06

This brief study of the 1945 expulsion of German populations from Eastern, Central and Eastern Europe does not by any means pretend to be a complete and exhaustive analysis of a subject so massive, complex and controversial. Moreover, it is selective in dealing with the reception of the expellees; it focuses on West Germany, which though most extensively involved is nevertheless only one of the many countries affected by the exodus. Yet the writer feels that even by presenting barely the fundamentals he can still hope to make some contribution to a field which at least in the English speaking world is far from being explored, analyzed and evaluated. His concentration on West Germany has been stimulated by two factors. First, this is the part of the former Reich which is most immediately affected by the transfer. Second, as a result of this involvement it is in West Germany that documentation and literature on the question are most extensive. Indeed, to obtain proper information and data from those countries within the Soviet orbit which are in any way linked with the problem is difficult and at times even impossible. For obvious reasons, in these countries interest is centered and quite understandably not on the expulsion of the Germans but rather on the transfer, dispersion and annihilation of their own peoples under the Nazi conquest events which in turn many Germans prefer to keep forgotten.

Vertriebene and

Pieds-Noirs in Postwar Germany and France Manuel Borutta, Jan C. Jansen, 2016-04-08 This volume compares one of the largest instances of ethnic cleansing the German expellees from the East Vertriebene with the most important case of decolonization migration the French repatriates of Algeria pieds noirs The Displacement of Population in Europe Eugene Michel Kulischer, 1943 Postwar Population Transfers in Europe 1945-1955 Joseph B. Schechtman, 1962 Forced Migration in Central and Eastern Europe, 1939-1950 Alfred J. Rieber, 2000 During and after World War II millions of people in Central and Eastern Europe were uprooted and deported from their ancestral homelands in an unprecedented series of ethnic cleansing. The expulsion of minorities created more homogenous states than had previously existed in the region but caused massive social and psychological problems that lasted for generations. These nine case studies written by Russian, German and Austrian scholars and based on archival findings should shed new light on deportations and resettlement in Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Germany. The introduction places forced migration throughout the region in a broad historical context Postwar Flight and Expulsion, After the war the West saw a measure of stability whereas Eastern Europe was chaotic as displaced populations and refugees shifted among new political territories in the wake of the Yalta and Potsdam conferences. Witness the travails of some of these populations including ethnic Germans refugees from Soviet rule and Jews who couldn't return to their former communities The Uprooted Göran Rystad, 1990 The German Exodus; A Selective Study on the Post-World War II Expulsion of German Populations and Its Effects, by G.C. These areas of expulsion included pre war German provinces which were transferred to Poland and the Soviet Union after the war as well as areas which Nazi Germany had annexed or occupied in pre war Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, northern Yugoslavia and other states of Central and Eastern Europe. The movement of Germans involved a total of at least 12 million people with some sources putting the figure at 14 million and was the largest movement or transfer of any population in modern European history. The largest numbers came from the former eastern territories of Germany acquired by Poland and the Soviet Union about 7 million and from Czechoslovakia about 3 million It was also the largest among all the post war expulsions in Central and Eastern Europe which displaced more than twenty million people in total The events Forced Migration Zentrum gegen Vertreibungen,2006
