The Development and Limitations of Feminist Christology Jacquelyn Grant,1985

Goddesses and the Divine Feminine Rosemary Ruether,2005-05-16 This landmark work presents the most illuminating portrait we have to date of goddesses and sacred female imagery in Western culture from prehistory to contemporary goddess movements Beautifully written lucidly conceived and far ranging in its implications this work will help readers gain a better appreciation of the complexity of the social forces mostly androcentric that have shaped the symbolism of the sacred feminine At the same time it charts a new direction for finding a truly egalitarian vision of God and human relations through a feminist ecological spirituality Rosemary Radford Ruether begins her exploration of the divine feminine with an analysis of prehistoric archaeology that challenges the popular idea that until their overthrow by male dominated monotheism many ancient societies were matriarchal in structure governed by a feminine divinity and existing in harmony with nature For Ruether the historical evidence suggests the reality about these societies is much more complex She goes on to consider key myths and rituals from Sumerian Babylonian Egyptian and Anatolian cultures to examine the relationships among gender deity and nature in the Hebrew religion and to discuss the development of Mariology and female mysticism in medieval Catholicism and the continuation of Wisdom mysticism in Protestantism She also gives a provocative analysis of the meeting of Aztec and Christian female symbols in Mexico and of today's neo pagan movements in the United States White Women's Christ and Black Women's Jesus Jacquelyn Grant, 1989 Christology is especially problematic for feminists Because Jesus was undeniably male and because the Christian church claims him as the unique God bearer feminist christology confronts the dual tasks of explaining the significance of a male God bearer for women and creating a christological model adequate to feminist experience Jacquelyn Grant rehearses the development and challenges of feminist christology and argues that because it has reflected the experience of White women predominantly it fails to speak to the concerns of non white and non western women In response to this failure Grant proposes a womanist theology and christology that emerge from and are adequate to the reality of contemporary Black women Shaping New Vision Clarissa W. Atkinson, Constance H. arts and other sources He examines four major models of how redemption through Christ has been thought to work theories of deliverance penal substitution sacrifice and transforming love He concludes by considering the outworking of salvation in the life of the Church the situation of non Christians and the final consummation of human life and the created world at the end of time      MWARI: The Great Being God Gwinyai H.
