Perloff,1993 Adapting Health Communication to Cultural Needs Piet Swanepoel,Hans Hoeken,2008 The question of what constitutes effective health communication has been addressed mainly by scholars working in American and European cultural contexts Many people who could benefit most from effective health communication however come from different cultures A prime example is the threat posed by HIV AIDS to the people of South Africa Although it is generally acknowledged that health communication needs to be tailored to the target audience s characteristics with cultural background being one of the most salient ones little research has been done on how to achieve this In this book we bring together leading scholars in the field of health communication as well as communication scholars from South Africa As such it can serve as an example of the promises and the limitations of general health communication theories to local praxis as well as provide guidelines for the development of better health communication in South Africa The Public Relations of Everything Robert E. Brown,2014-10-30 The public relations of everything takes the radical position that public relations is a profoundly different creature than a generation of its scholars and teachers have portrayed it Today it is clearly no longer limited if it ever has been to the management of communication in and between organizations Rather it has become an activity engaged in by everyone and for the most basic human reasons as an act of self creation self expression and self protection The book challenges both popular dismissals and ill informed repudiations of public relations as well as academic and classroom misconceptions In the age of digitization and social media everyone with a smart phone Twitter and Facebook accounts and the will and skill to use them is in the media The PR of everything the ubiquitousness of public relations takes a perspective that is less concerned with ideas of communication and information than with experience and drama a way of looking at public relations inside out upside down and from a micro rather than a macro level Based on a combination of the research of PR practice and critical thinking analysis of theory and founded in the author s extensive corporate experience
