Darkroom Gerard Ross, 2008 YA Age 12 14 Emily finds out a mysterious secret about her dad's old camera. It seems to be able to take pictures of the future. Unedited summary from book.

In the Dark Room Rosanna Maule, Julie Beaulieu, 2009 This book examines Duras's contribution to contemporary cinema. The dark room in the collection's title refers to one of Duras's metaphors for the writing process: la chambre noire as the solitary space of literary creation, the place where she struggles to project her internal shadow onto the blank page. The dark room is also a metaphor for the film theater and by extension for the filmic experience. Duras rejected conventional forms of cinematic address that encourage the spectator to develop a positive identification with the film's diegesis and narrative. Her films create unusual rapports between image and sound, diegetic and extra diegetic elements and textual and intertextual dimensions of cinematic representation. In doing so they allow the film spectator to establish new connections with the screen. This collection focuses on the aesthetic, conceptual and political challenges involved in Duras's innovative approach to cinematic representation from an interdisciplinary perspective including film and literary theory, psychoanalytic analysis, music theory, gender studies and post colonial criticism. The book opens with a theoretical introduction to Duras's cinematic practice and its peculiar position in contemporary cinema and contemporary film theory and is divided into five parts, each one devoted to a specific aspect of Duras's films: the interaction between literature and cinema; Part One: the reconfiguration of the cinematic gaze; Part Two: and of the image/sound relation; Part Three: the representation of history and memory; Part Four: and of cultural identity; Part Five.

Lying in the Dark Room Emma Cheate, 2023-12-01 Lying in the Dark Room: Architectures of British Maternity returns to and reflects on the spatial and architectural experience of childbirth through both a critical history of maternity spaces and a creative exploration of those we use today. Where conventional architectural histories objectify buildings in parallel with the objectification of the maternal body, the book in the mode of creative practice research presents a creative critical autotheory of the architecture of lying in. It uses feminist subjective modes of thinking that travel across disciplines, registers and arguments. The book assesses the transformation of maternity spaces from the female bedchamber of seventeenth and eighteenth century marital homes to the lying-in hospitals of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, purposely built by midwives to the late twentieth century spaces of home and the modern hospital maternity wing and the parallel shifts in maternal practices. The spaces are not treated as mute or neutral backdrops to maternal history but as a series of vital, entangled atmospheres, materials, practices and objects that are produced by and in turn produce particular social and political conditions, gendered structures and experiences. Moving across spaces, systems, protagonists and their subjectivities, the book shows how hospital design and protocol altered ordinary birth at home and continues to shape maternal spatial experience today. As such, it will be of interest to a wide range of readers from architectural historians, theoreticians, designers and students to medical humanities historians to English Literature humanities and material studies scholars as well as those interested in creative critical writing.
