The Decoration Of The California Missions:

The Decoration of the California Missions Norman Neuerburg, 1991      Architecture of the California Missions Kurt Baer, 2023-11-15 Architecture of the California Missions by Kurt Baer with photographs by Hugo Rudinger offers a deep dive into the architectural legacy of California's historic missions. Rather than simply providing a history or a guide to these iconic buildings, this work is a scholarly study of the stylistic influences and architectural forms that shaped these structures. Baer examines the classical, Roman, Moorish, Mexican, baroque, and primitive elements that influenced the design of the missions, grouping them according to the distinct styles that are most prominently represented in the surviving buildings. The book carefully explores how these missions, built in a short span during a time of Spanish decline and political turmoil, reflect both the aesthetic aspirations and the practical limitations of their time. With much of the archival information lost and only romanticized sketches remaining, Baer reconstructs the history and style of these buildings based on existing structures, old photographs, and available documents. Accompanied by Hugo Rudinger's evocative black and white photographs, which capture the simplicity and timeless beauty of the missions, this work provides a unique visual and narrative journey into California's architectural past. It is a must-read for architecture enthusiasts and anyone fascinated by the history and legacy of California's mission era. This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program, which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice, reach, and impact. Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893, Voices Revived makes high-quality, peer-reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print-on-demand technology. This title was originally published in 1958.

California Mission Landscapes Elizabeth Kryder-Reid, 2016-11-30. Nothing defines California and our nation's heritage as significantly or emotionally as the California Mission Foundation, as do the twenty-one missions that were founded along the coast from San Diego to Sonoma. Indeed, the missions collectively represent the state's most iconic tourist destinations and are touchstones for interpreting its history. Elementary school students today still make model missions, evoking the romanticized versions of the 1930s. Does it occur to them or to the tourists that the missions have a dark history? California Mission Landscapes is an unprecedented and fascinating history of California mission landscapes from colonial outposts to their reinvention as heritage sites through the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Illuminating the deeply political nature of this transformation, Elizabeth Kryder-Reid argues that the designed landscapes have long recast the missions from sites of colonial oppression to aestheticized and nostalgia-drenched monasteries. She investigates how such landscapes have been appropriated in social and political power struggles, particularly in the perpetuation of social inequalities across boundaries of gender, race, class, ethnicity, and religion. California Mission Landscapes demonstrates how the gardens planted in mission courtyards over the past 150 years are not merely anachronistic but have become potent ideological spaces. The transformation of these sites of conquest into physical and metaphoric gardens has reinforced the marginalization of indigenous agency and diminished the contemporary consequences.

of colonialism And yet importantly this book also points to the potential to create very different visitor experiences than these landscapes currently do Despite the wealth of scholarship on California history until now no book has explored the mission landscapes as an avenue into understanding the politics of the past tracing the continuum between the Spanish colonial period emerging American nationalism and the contemporary heritage industry

Indigenizing California Mission Art and Architecture Yve Chavez, 2025-06-03 Examines how Native artists kept their culture alive by creatively adapting under colonial rule Between 1769 and 1823 the Franciscans established twenty one missions in California colonizing the ancestral territories of many Native communities between present day Sonoma and San Diego In Indigenizing California Mission Art and Architecture Gabrieleno Tongva scholar Yve Chavez highlights how these communities preserved their cultural practices amid colonial oppression Rooted in Chavez's ancestral homeland and the neighboring Chumash region in coastal Southern California her book focuses on Mission San Gabriel Mission San Buenaventura and Mission Santa Barbara Recasting these sites as spaces of Native cultural heritage Yve Chavez examines how Indigenous artists resisted assimilation while accommodating foreign ideas into their established practices Drawing on Indigenous knowledge and art historical research of performance and regalia basketry sculpture and architecture Chavez demonstrates how Native artists navigated colonial power structures ensuring the survival of their customs during the mission era and beyond Rather than replacing Indigenous identity the missions became spaces through which Native people asserted their connection to the landscape and its resources This analysis not only recasts mission art and architecture within an Indigenizing framework but also serves as a vital resource for understanding the ongoing significance of these sites for the descendants of mission survivors

California Exposures Richard White, 2020-03-17 Winner of the 2021 California Book Award Californiana category A brilliant California history in word and image from an award winning historian and a documentary photographer This is the West sir When the legend becomes fact print the legend This indelible quote from The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance applies especially well to California where legend has so thoroughly become fact that it is visible in everyday landscapes Our foremost historian of the West Richard White never content to print the legend collaborates here with his son a talented photographer in excavating the layers of legend built into California's landscapes Together they expose the bedrock of the past and the history they uncover is astonishing Jesse White's evocative photographs illustrate the sites of Richard's historical investigations A vista of Drake's Estero conjures the darkly amusing story of the Drake Navigators Guild and its dubious efforts to establish an Anglo Saxon heritage for California The restored Spanish missions of Los Angeles frame another origin story in which California's native inhabitants civilized through contact with friars gift their territories to white settlers But the history is not so placid A quiet riverside park in the Tulare Lake Basin belies scenes of horror from when settlers in the 1850s transformed native homelands into American property Near the lake bed stands a small marker commemorating the Mussel Slough massacre the culmination of a violent struggle over land titles between local farmers and the Southern Pacific Railroad in the 1870s Tulare is today a fertile agricultural county but its population is poor and unhealthy The California Dream lives elsewhere The lake itself disappeared when tributary rivers were rerouted to deliver government subsidized water to big agriculture and cities But climate change ensures that it will be back the only question is when
