The Dialectics Of Shopping Lewis Henry Morgan Lecture Series:

The Dialectics of Shopping Daniel Miller, 2001-03-01 Shopping is generally considered to be a pleasurable activity. But in reality it can often be complicated and frustrating. Daniel Miller explores the many contradictions faced by shoppers on a typical street in London and in the process offers a sophisticated examination of the way we shop and what it reveals about our relationships to our families and communities as well as to the environment and the economy as a whole. Miller's companions are mostly women who confront these contradictions as they shop. They placate their children with items that combine nutrition with taste or usefulness with style. They decide between shopping at the local store or at the impersonal but less expensive mall. They tell of their sympathy for environmental concerns but somehow avoid much ethical shopping. They are faced with a selection of shops whose shifts and mergers often reveal extraordinary stories of their own. Filled with entertaining and thoroughly familiar stories of shoppers and shops this book will interest scholars across a broad range of disciplines.

Representations of Consumer Culture in Post-soviet Estonia Margit Keller, 2004 Marketing Ethics & Society Lynne Eagle, Stephan Dahl, 2015-09-15 Marketing while essential to organisational success is arguably one of the most controversial aspects of business management. Criticisms of marketing's impact range from fostering materialism and unsustainable consumption patterns through to the use of deception, stifling of innovation and lowering of quality to name but a few. Taking a holistic and international perspective this book critically examines the ethical challenges marketing faces and explores strategies marketers can use to respond to those challenges. The book examines specific aspects of marketing activities such as ethical considerations in relation to young consumers, potentially harmful products and criticism of the societal impact of medical arts and tourism marketing activities. It then combines these with wider discussions of frameworks that enable marketers to respond to ethical challenges supplemented by discussions of cross cultural and international perspectives, consumer responses and ethical consumption movements as well as shifting historical perceptions of marketing ethics. The book is accompanied by a companion website including PowerPoint slides and teaching notes per chapter, links to free SAGE journal articles and online videos selected per chapter by the authors, quizzes per chapter and links to further reading online.

Cultural Anthropology Barbara D. Miller, 2004 STUDENT EDITION The first mainstream book to truly integrate coverage of race, class, gender, ethnicity and age continues to win high praise. One user writes: Miller's text offers Explorations in Critical Studies of Advertising James F. Hamilton,Robert Bodle,Ezequiel Korin,2016-10-26 This volume provides a thoughtful and wide ranging exploration of approaches to the critical study of advertising Current and impending practices of advertising have in many ways exceeded the grasp of traditional modes of critique due at least in part to their being formulated in very different historical conditions To begin to address this lag this edited collection explores through critical discussion and application a variety of critical approaches to advertising Authors address a variety of concrete examples in their chapters drawing on existing research while presenting new findings where relevant In order to maintain the relevance of this collection past this particular historical moment however chapters do not simply report on empirical work but develop a theoretical argument    Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2001    Porta Palazzo Rachel E.

Black,2012-04-16 Porta Palazzo arguably Western Europe's largest open air market is a central economic social and cultural hub for Italians and migrants in the city of Turin Open air markets like Porta Palazzo have existed for centuries in Europe although their function has changed over time traditional markets are no longer the primary place to buy food they remain popular destinations In an age of supermarkets and online commerce markets offer unique social and cultural opportunities and bring together urban and rural worldviews These factors are often overlooked in traditional economic studies of food distribution but anthropologist Rachel E Black contends that social relations are essential for building and maintaining valuable links between production and consumption From the history of Porta Palazzo to the current growing pains of the market this book concentrates on points where trade meets cultural identities and cuisine Its detailed and perceptive portraits of the market bring into relief the lives of the vendors shoppers and passersby Black's ethnography illuminates the daily work of market going and the anxieties of shoppers as they navigate the market It examines migration the link between cuisine and cultural identity culinary tourism the connection between the farmers market and the production of local food and the urban planning issues negotiated by the city of Turin and market users during a recent renovation This vibrant study featuring a foreword by Slow Food Movement founder Carlo Petrini makes a strong case for why markets like Porta Palazzo are critical for fostering culinary culture and social life in cities
