Huxley's The Doors of Perception and Heaven and Hell Everest Media, 2022-08-21T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 The drug mescaline the active principle of peyote has a unique position among drugs It changes the quality of consciousness more profoundly than any other substance and yet it is less toxic than any other 2 We can pool information about experiences but never the experiences themselves From family to nation every human group is a society of island universes 3 To see ourselves as others see us is a most salutary gift To see others as they see themselves is also a most important gift but what if these others belong to a different species and inhabit a radically alien universe 4 The change that occurred in me was not revolutionary I became aware of a slow dance of golden lights The Doors of Perception and Heaven and Hell Heaven and Hell Aldous Huxley, 1972 Heaven & Hell

Aldous Leonard Huxley, 2022-08-01 In Heaven Hell Aldous Huxley explores the complex interplay between human consciousness perception and spirituality drawing upon a rich tapestry of philosophical and psychological frameworks The book delves into the distinctions between various states of consciousness particularly contrasting the ecstatic experiences associated with psychedelics and mysticism with the mundane aspects of everyday life Huxley employs a blend of lyrical prose and analytical rigor inviting readers to contemplate the nature of reality through a multidisciplinary lens that encompasses literature psychology and comparative religion This work serves as both a philosophical treatise and a personal exploration of altered states positioning itself within the broader context of Huxley's fascination with transcendent experiences which has reverberated through modern consciousness studies and literature Aldous Huxley a prominent figure of the early 20th century literary landscape was profoundly influenced by his own experiences and the cultural milieu surrounding him. Coming from a family with deep intellectual roots and having firsthand exposure to the effects of war and societal change, Huxley sought to understand the depths of human experience. His earlier works, including Brave New World, laid the groundwork for his later explorations of consciousness, and Heaven and Hell represents a pivotal evolution in his thought, engaging with the burgeoning psychedelic movement and the philosophical questions surrounding human perception and divine experience. I highly recommend Heaven and Hell to readers interested in the intersections of psychology, spirituality, and philosophy. Huxley's incisive insights and eloquent prose encourage a profound inquiry into the nature of consciousness and the myriad ways in which it can be transcended. This book is a compelling read for those seeking to broaden their understanding of the human experience while navigating the delicate balance between heaven and hell within the human psyche.

The Doors of Perception Aldous Huxley, 1960 The Doors of Perception, 1970 The doors of perception and Heaven and hell : [these remarkable narratives relate and analyse author's visionary experiences under the influence of mescaline, an ancient Mexican drug] Aldous Huxley (Writer, Great Britain, United States), 1959 The Doors of Perception, 1960 Las puertas de la percepción - Cielo e infierno / The Doors of Perception & Heaven and Hell Aldous Huxley, 2019-02-19

Huxley es uno de los primeros escritores del siglo XX que trató de descubrir los cambios objetivos provocados por la ingestión de drogas alucinógenas. En Las puertas de la percepción (1954), el autor narra la fantástica experiencia visionaria que le produce la toma de mescalina, el principio activo del peyotl. Dos años más tarde publica Cielo e infierno, en el que continúa explorando la unidad entre la mente y el cosmos. Estos ensayos tan singulares como precursores son en sí mismas experiencias de trascendencia del yo. Si las puertas de la percepción quedaran depuradas, todas las cosas aparecerían ante el hombre tal como son: infinitas.

The Doors of Perception; And, Heaven & Hell Aldous Huxley, 1992 The Doors of Perception Aldous Huxley (Schriftsteller, Grossbritannien, USA), 1965 Travel and Drugs in Twentieth-Century Literature Lindsey Michael Banco, 2013-01-11

This book examines the connections between two disparate yet persistently bound thematic: mobility and intoxication, and explores their central yet frequently misunderstood role in constructing subjectivity following the 1960s. Emerging from profound mid-twentieth-century changes in how drugs and travel were imagined, the conceptual nexus discussed sheds new light on British and North American responses to sixties counterculture. With readings of Aldous Huxley, William Burroughs, Alex Garland, Hunter S. Thompson, and Robert Sedlack, Banco traces twin arguments looking at the ways travel is imagined as a disciplinary force acting upon the creative destabilizing powers of psychedelic intoxication and exploring the ways drugs help construct travel spaces and practices as at times revolutionary and at other times neo colonial By following a sequence of shifting understandings of drug and travel orthodoxies this book traverses fraught and irresistibly linked terrains from the late 1950s up to a period marked by international postmodern tourism As such it helps illuminate a world where tourism is continually expanding yet constantly circumscribed and where illegal drugs are both increasingly unregulated in the global economy and perceived more and more as crucial agents in the construction of human subjectivity Kabbalah in
