The Military Covenant Sarah Ingham, 2016-03-03 The Military Covenant states that in exchange for their military service and their willingness to make the ultimate sacrifice soldiers should receive the nation's support Exploring the concept's invention by the Army in the late 1990s its migration to the civilian sphere from 2006 and its subsequent entrenchment in public policy Ingham seeks to understand the Covenant's progress from the esoteric confines of Army doctrine to national recognition Drawing on interviews with senior commanders policy makers and representatives of Forces charities this study highlights how the Army deployed the Military Covenant to convey the pressure on the institution caused by the concurrent combat operations in Iraq and Afghanistan While achieving a better deal for soldiers whose sacrifice became all too apparent the Military Covenant licensed unprecedented incursion into politics by senior commanders enabling them to outmanoeuvre the Blair Brown governments and to challenge the existing norms within Britain's civil-military relationship As British Forces prepare to leave Afghanistan this study considers the value Britain accords to military service and whether civilian society will continue to uphold its Covenant with those who have served the nation

The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books to 1975 British Library, 1984 Stock Pieces: British Repertory Theatre, 1760-1830 Susan

Valladares, 2024-12-26 What do we gain from watching a familiar play for the nth time This was a crucial question for

Romantic period theatre managers who to deliver varied programmes relied on a repertoire of stock entertainments performed in alternation with the latest plays Repertory theatre was not new to the Romantic period but it took on additional purchase at a time when the playhouse was not simply a site for entertainment but a government controlled cultural institution and business subject to sometimes extreme financial political and ideological pressures Through an innovative selection of case studies drawn from deep archival research Stock Pieces juxtaposes canonical with otherwise forgotten entertainments unites the period's professional and amateur dramatic cultures and spans British metropolitan provincial and imperial geographies The picture that emerges is fresh and compelling Stock Pieces sheds light on the mechanics of stock piece status the Romantic afterlives of Shakespeare's near contemporaries whose popular appeal declined as his increased and the work of various agents from pantomime arrangers to enslaved performers in Jamaica who contested the repertoire's received aesthetic and cultural values It also explores the extent to which investments in the abolitionist cause were remediated by stock pieces that revived and reenacted the spectral violence of slavery and the slave trade for various purposes Stock Pieces showcases how the Romantic period dramatic repertoire could be mobilised to signify social and political practices that operated outside the theatrical institution crossed national borders and dared to effect real change

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience General Catalogue of Printed Books to 1955
