The Death Of Drawing Architecture In The Age Of Simulation:

The Death of Drawing David Scheer, 2014-06-05 The Death of Drawing explores the causes and effects of the epochal shift from drawing to computation as the chief design and communication medium in architecture. Drawing both framed the thinking of architects and organized the design and construction process to place architects at its center. Its displacement by building information modeling (BIM) and computational design recasts both the terms in which architects think and their role in building production. Author David Ross Scheer explains that whereas drawing allowed architects to represent ideas in form, BIM and computational design simulate experience, making building behavior or performance the primary object of design. The author explores many ways in which this displacement is affecting architecture: the dominance of performance criteria in the evaluation of design decisions, the blurring of the separation of design and construction, the undermining of architects' authority over their projects by automated information sharing, the elimination of the human body as the common foundation of design and experience, the transformation of the meaning of geometry when it is performed by computers, the changing nature of design when it requires computation or is done by a digitally enabled collaboration. Throughout the book, Scheer examines both the theoretical bases and the practical consequences of these changes. The Death of Drawing is a clear-eyed account of the reasons for and consequences of the displacement of drawing by computational media in architecture. Its aim is to give architects the ability to assess the impact of digital media on their own work and to see both the challenges and opportunities of this historic moment in the history of their discipline.

Getting to Grips with BIM James Harty, Tahar Kouider, Graham Paterson, 2015-12-14 With the UK government's 2016 BIM threshold approaching, support for small organisations on interpreting, filtering and applying BIM protocols and standards is urgently required. Many small UK construction industry supply chain firms are uncertain about what Level 2 BIM involves and are unsure about taking first steps towards having BIM capability. As digitisation increasingly impacts on work practices, Getting to Grips with BIM offers an insight into an industry in change, supplemented by practical guidance on managing the transition towards more widespread and integrated use of digital tools to manage the design, construction and whole life use of buildings. Journal access to a website that contains samples of all AIA Contract Documents in PDF format for Mac and PC computers With comprehensive coverage of contemporary practices in architecture as well as the latest developments and trends in the industry The Architect's Handbook of Professional Practice continues to be the essential reference for every architect who must meet the challenges of today's marketplace with insight and confidence Drawing Room Aaron Paterson, Sarosh Mulla, Marian Macken, 2021-03-20 Drawing Room explores architecture as a consequence of its media in the post digital realm in which the novelty of digital drawing has been superseded by the creative potential found in diverse methods of drawing spanning the analogue to the virtual Drawing Room suggests speculative drawing practices that sit beside architectural professional practice yet feed into it highlighting the rapidly changing way architects draw and visualise their designs Design Computing Brian Johnson, 2016-11-18 Design Computing will help you understand the rapidly evolving relationship between computing designers and the many different environments they create or work in The book introduces the topic of design computing and covers the basics of hardware and software so you don't need to be an expert Topics include the fundamentals of digital representation programming and interfaces for design the shifting landscape of opportunity and expectation in practice and pedagogy placing sensors in buildings to measure performance and the challenge of applying information effectively in design The book also includes additional reading for those who wish to dig deeper into the subject Design Computing will provide you with a greater awareness of the issues that permeate the field opportunities for you to investigate and perhaps motivation to push the boundaries Visioning Technologies Graham Cairns, 2016-12-08 Visioning Technologies brings together a collection of texts from leading theorists to examine how architecture has been and is reframed and restructured by the visual and theoretical frameworks introduced by different technologies of sight understood to include orthographic projection perspective drawing telescopic devices photography film and computer visualization amongst others Each chapter deals with its own area and historical period of expertise organized sequentially to mark out and analyse the historical evolution of how architecture has been transformed by technologically induced shifts in human perception from the 15th century until today This book underlines the way in which architectural forms and design processes have developed historically in conjunction with the systems of sight we manufacture technologically and suggests this continues today Paradoxically it is premised on the argument that these technological systems tend in their initial formulations to obtain ever greater realism in our visualizations of the physical world idea journal: interior technicity: unplugged and/or switched on Julieanna Preston, 2020-10-07 Interior Technicity Unplugged and or Switched On invites reflection on how interiors have always been augmenting entities and how they continue to be so in other words extending facilitating and consolidating bodies within socio cultural environments Rather than seeing an interior as an inside in opposition to a world beyond it asks what modes of folding inward have equipped and enabled the spatial environment Technicity the world of tools and technical objects that extend and mediate memory as Bernard Steigler 1998 describes it has never been what inside ness in its sheltering of life keeps at bay mediation is from the start technical indexed to inscribing practices rich in temporal and embodied implications By this reading interiors have always been augmented and augmenting in the sense of the Latinaugmentare to increase enlarge or enrich This IDEA Journal issue considers this mode of folding inward as a condition of an interior specificity Whether it be a small structure such as a tramping hut or a tiny house a large complex interior environment such as an airport or shopping mall handmade with local materials such as Samoan fale or the result of manufacturing processes assembling artificial and prefabricated elements as in the case of a spacecraft boat or train interiors are augmented mediated generated or embellished by technologies The effect of these technologies is not neutral one s experience of an interior is significantly influenced by the affective resonance of its technologies
