The Defeat Of Solidarity Anger And Politics In Postcommunist Europe:

The Defeat of Solidarity David Ost,2018-07-05 How did the fall of communism and the subsequent transition to capitalism in Eastern Europe affect the people who experienced it And how did their anger affect the quality of the democratic systems that have emerged Poland offers a particularly provocative case for it was here where workers most famously seemed to have won thanks to the role of the Solidarity trade union And yet within a few short years they had clearly lost An oppressive communist regime gave way to a capitalist society that embraced economic and political inequality leaving many workers frustrated and angry Their leaders first ignored them then began to fear them and finally tried to marginalize them In turn workers rejected their liberal leaders opening the way for right wing nationalists to take control of Solidarity Ost tells a fascinating story about the evolution of postcommunist society in Eastern Europe Informed by years of fieldwork in Polish factory towns scores of interviews with workers labor activists and politicians and an exhaustive reading of primary sources his new book gives voice to those who have not been heard But even more Ost proposes a novel theory about the role of anger in politics to show why such voices matter and how they profoundly affect political outcomes Drawing on Poland s experiences Ost describes lessons relevant to democratization throughout Eastern Europe and to democratic theory in general

Capital, Coercion, and Postcommunist States Gerald M. Easter,2012-09-18 The postcommunist transitions produced two very different types of states The contractual state is associated with the countries of Eastern Europe which moved toward democratic regimes consensual relations with society and clear boundaries between political power and economic wealth The predatory state is associated with the successors to the USSR which instead developed authoritarian regimes coercive relations with society and poorly defined boundaries between the political and economic realms In Capital Coercion and Postcommunist States Gerald M Easter shows how the cumulative result of the many battles between state coercion and societal capital over taxation gave rise to these distinctive transition outcomes Easter s fiscal sociology of the postcommunist state highlights the interconnected paths that led from the fiscal crisis of the old regime through the revenue bargains of transitional tax regimes to the eventual reconfiguration of state society relations His focused comparison of Poland and Russia exemplifies postcommunism s divergent institutional forms The Polish case shows how conflicts over taxation influenced the emergence of a rule of law contractual state social market capitalism and civil society The Russian case reveals how revenue imperatives reinforced the emergence of a rule by law predatory state concessions style capitalism and dependent society

Fallen heroes in global capitalism V. Trappman,Vera Trappmann,2013-05-07 Through the prism of Nowa Huta a landmark of socialist industrialization Trappmann challenges the one sided account of Poland as a successful transition case and reveals the ambivalent role of the European Union in economic restructuring An exemplary suggestive case of multi level analysis research

considers aspects of transformation of former state socialist countries social and economic outcomes forces in the

transformation process problems of consolidation of the new regimes and other scenarios It also looks at alternative types of society that might replace state socialism particularly state capitalism and market socialism Social Movements in Post-Communist Europe and Russia Kerstin Jacobsson, Steven Saxonberg, 2015-12-22 This volume provides a much needed update on the state of civil society in post communist Europe and Russia more than two decades after the fall of the communist regimes The chapters offer new perspectives on social movement strategies in post communist Central Eastern Europe and Russia The chapters illustrate how social movements develop particular repertoires of action and contention which are better suited for their specific local contexts in the post communist setting In Russia and Poland the most popular and effective choices are using domestic and transnational legal opportunities judicial activism and litigation that complement the traditional lobbying and mass mobilization Human rights framing has become important in Hungary and the Czech Republic The chapters analyse various types of rights based activism that operate in otherwise prohibitive social and political environments thereby raising highly contentious issues such as animal rights environment and sustainability human rights women's rights and gay rights activism The contributions richly illustrate the often surprising and multiple ways in which transnational discourses and norm pressure are received translated or resisted in the local contexts Finally the volume provides a novel reconceptualisation and offers new understandings of the relationships between the state and civil society in the post communist context This book is based on a special issue of East European Politics Business Leaders and New Varieties of Capitalism in Post-Communist Europe Katharina Bluhm, Bernd Martens, Vera Trappmann, 2013-09-23 Business leaders exert extraordinary influence on institution building in market economies but they think and act within institutional settings This book combines both an elite approach with a varieties of capitalism approach Comparing Poland Hungary and East and West Germany we perceive the transformations in East Central Europe and in Germany after 1989 as being intertwined Based on a joint survey this book seeks to measure the level of the convergence of ideas among European business leaders assuming it to be more extensive than the institutional convergence expected under the dominance of neoliberal discourse Analyzing the institutional framework organizational features like size ownership and labour relations and subjective characteristics like age social origin career patterns and attitudes of the recent business elites we found significant differences between countries and the types of organization The growing importance of economic degrees and internationalization shows astonishingly little explanatory power on the views of business leaders The idea of a coordinated market economy is still relatively widespread among Germans while their Hungarian and Polish counterparts are more likely to display a minimalist view of corporate responsibility to society and adverse attitudes towards employee representation However their attitudes frequently tend to be inconsistent which mirrors the mixed type of capitalism in East Central Europe

Elites and Identities in Post-Soviet Space David Lane, 2013-09-13 The dissolution of the communist system led to the creation of new states and the formation of new concepts of citizenship in the post Soviet states of Central and Eastern Europe The formation of national identity also occurred in the context of the process of increasing economic and political globalisation particularly the widening of the European Union to include the central European post socialist and Baltic States Internationally Russia sought to establish a new identity either as a European or as a Eurasian society and had to accommodate the interests of a wider Russian Diaspora in the near abroad This book addresses how domestic elites regional political and economic influenced the formation of national identities and the ways in which citizenship has been defined A second component considers the external dimensions the ways in which foreign elites influenced either directly or indirectly the concept of identity and the interaction with internal elites The essays consider the role of the European Union in attempting to form a European identity Moreover the growing internationalisation of economies privatisation monetary harmonisation dependence on trade also had effects on the kind of national identity sought by the new nation states as well as the defining by them of the other The collection focuses on the interrelations between social identity state and citizenship formation and the role of elites in defining the content of concepts in different post communist societies This book was originally published as a special issue of Europe Asia Studies Democracy Assistance Bypassing Governments in Recipient Countries Paulina Pospieszna, 2018-07-18 This book addresses important and under researched issues such as the role of young people in democratization processes the role of new democracies in sharing their transition experience and the effectiveness of aid A major theme of the book is democracy assistance efforts by the NGOs from Central and Eastern Europe to support young people in Eastern Europe the Western Balkans and Central Asia It examines this theme in a comparative perspective and with a deeper analysis of reasons and ways to support young people the need to support them and the effectiveness of these efforts Bringing together a wide range of material on democracy assistance of Central and Eastern European countries that includes surveying the providers and beneficiaries of aid and looking for better methods of impact evaluation the book advances a framework for assessing democracy assistance efforts It concludes with implications of the impact of democracy assistance on young people and democracy diffusion from Central and Eastern European democracies to other countries This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of democracy democratization Central and Eastern Europe Post Soviet studies and European and Comparative Politics as well as for practitioners donors NGOs who want to know what works best and why and when in aid provision European Politics in Transition Mark Kesselman, 2006 Written by six prominent scholars European Politics in Transition presents a stimulating and comprehensive introduction to the political systems of post World War II Great Britain France Italy Germany Eastern Europe and the European Union Four key themes economic management relationships between countries the challenges of democracy and the political impact of social diversity are used to illustrate the concept of politics in transition within each country and on a global level Democratic Transition and Democratic Consolidation in Slovenia Jure Vidmar, 2008 The study examines the democratization in Slovenia and compares it to democratization processes elsewhere drawing patterns upon not only other post communist democratizations but also upon general patterns in other third wave democratizations The book begins with a theoretical overview the problem of defining democracy democratic transition and democratic consolidation It proceeds to an examination of the historical political and economic factors relevant for the democratization The transition is explained from Yugoslav Slovenian and external aspects where foundations for patterns in Slovenian democratization are sought The consolidation is examined on the institutional level and on the level of the actors In the concluding analysis the indicators of democratic consolidation are examined in a comparative perspective and applied to Slovenia

Continuity and Change in Social Life Kazimierz M. Słomczyński,Sandra T. Marquart-Pyatt,2007 Capital & Class ,2007 Trade Unionism Since 1945 Craig Phelan,2009

Overview This book offers the detailed historical background required for a holistic appreciation of current problems faced and the possibilities for revitalisation In two volumes it provides introductory overviews of trade union development since the end of World War II in 26 countries from every corner of the globe Each chapter explains the main contours of trade union growth and development in one country from the pivotal year 1945 to the present Each chapter assesses the often dynamic expansion of trade unionism in the 1950s and 1960s the role of trade unionism in the movements for national liberation in the Global South and the erection of social welfare systems in the developed North the economic shocks that resulted in membership decline and loss of political influence from the late 1970s onward the economic restructuring and growing labour market diversity of the 1980s and 1990s that undercut the traditional bases of trade union membership and the historical roots of the contemporary political and economic context in which revitalisation efforts are taking place

Performing the 'New' Europe Karen Fricker,Milija Gluhovic,2013-05-13 Bringing together the voices of scholars from Europe and North America with those of key contest stakeholders Performing the New Europe Identities Feelings and Politics in the Eurovision Song Contest argues that this popular music competition is a symbolic contact zone between European cultures an arena for European identification in which both national solidarity and participation in a European identity are confirmed and a site where cultural struggles over the meanings frontiers and limits of Europe are enacted This exciting collection explores the ways in which European artists perform disavow and contest their racial national and sexual identities in the Eurovision Song Contest ESC and asks difficult questions about European inclusions and exclusions the contest reflects It suggests the ESC as an ever evolving network of peoples and places transcending both historical and geographical boundaries of Europe that brings into being new understandings of the relationship between culture space and identities

New Left Review ,2005 The Nation ,2005 The Polish Review ,2006 Slavic Review ,2005 Transnational Actors in Central and East European Transitions Mitchell Alexander Orenstein,Stephen R. Bloom,Nicole Lindstrom,2008 The editors of this volume contend that transnational actors have exerted a powerful influence in postcommunist transitions They demonstrate that transitions to democracy capitalism and nation statehood which scholars thought were likely to undermine one another were facilitated by the integration of Central and East European states into an international system of complex interdependence Transnational actors turn out to be the dark matter that held the various aspects of the transition together Leading scholars debate the role and impact of transnational actors and present a promising new research program for the study of this rapidly transforming region Between State and Nation Myra A. Waterbury, 2010-11-15 This book investigates the relationship between states and transborder ethnic groups in Eastern Europe It uses the case of Hungary which has long standing ties to the nearly three million ethnic Hungarians in neighboring countries to address why and how kin states take action on behalf of their ethnic diasporas and the consequences of that engagement for regional relations and domestic politics The book argues that it is not ethnic affiliation but elite political competition within a newly liberalized post communist party system together with European Union integration that both drives increased engagement with ethnic kin abroad and constrains its most dangerous forms
