The Digestive System

CHRISTINE
TAYLOR-BUTLER

A detailed anatomical illustration of the human digestive system. The illustration shows a transparent human torso from the side, revealing the internal organs. The liver is a large, reddish-brown organ located in the upper right quadrant. Below it, the stomach is a large, reddish-pink organ. To the right of the stomach, a purple tube represents the esophagus, which connects to the stomach. Below the stomach, the intestines are shown as a series of coiled, reddish-pink tubes. The lungs are visible in the upper left, and the heart is in the center. The spine and ribcage are also visible through the transparent skin.

A group of organs break down our digest food for the body. Some food stays in the stomach for as long as five hours.
