Wind Stress Over The Ocean:

Wind Stress Over the Ocean Ian S. F. Jones, Yoshiaki Toba, 2001-09-24 Understanding wind stress drag over the ocean is central to many facets of air sea interaction which in turn is vital for models of weather prediction and climate modelling Wind Stress over the Ocean first published in 2001 brings together thirty of the world's leading experts in air sea interaction under the auspices of the Scientific Committee on Oceanic Research Wind Stress over the Ocean provides a thorough re-examination of the physical processes that transfer momentum between the atmosphere and the ocean As well as describing the established fundamentals the book also explores active areas of research and controversy The book will form a comprehensive guide and reference for researchers and graduate students in physical oceanography meteorology fluid dynamics and coastal engineering The Mean Wind Stress Over the Atlantic Ocean John Douglas Cochran, Palmer

Osborn, 1950 The Field of Mean Wind Stress Over the North Pacific Ocean J. F. T. Saur, John Douglas Cochran, Scripps Institution of Oceanography, 1948* Wind Stress Over the Open Ocean Margaret J. Yelland, 1997

Scientific Opportunities Using Satellite Surface Wind Stress Measurements Over the Ocean Satellite Surface Stress Working Group, 1982 A New Analysis of Monthly Mean Wind Stress Over the Global Ocean Y.-J. Han, S.-W. Lee, 1981

The Mean Wind Stress Over the Atlantic Ocean, by J D Cochran and P Osborn. Oceanographic Report No. 21, 1950 Scientific opportunities using satellite surface wind stress measurements over the ocean, 1982 Wind Stress on the Ocean Over the Eastern Continental Shelf of North America Peter M. Saunders, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, 1978 Wind Stress in the Open Ocean P. Taylor, 1996 Ocean Current and Wave Effects on Wind Stress Drag Coefficient Over the Global Ocean, 2007 The effects of ocean surface currents and dominant waves on the wind stress drag coefficient  $C_0$  are examined over the global ocean Major findings are as follows 2 the combination of both ocean wave and current speeds can result in reductions in daily  $C_0$  10% but the notable impact of the latter is only evident in the tropical Pacific Ocean 2 the presence of waves generally makes winds weaker and  $C_0$  lower almost everywhere over the global ocean 3 strong ocean currents near the western boundaries Kuroshio and Gulf Stream do not substantially influence  $C_0$  since the winds and currents are not always aligned and 4 the change in speed used in bulk flux parameterization also causes large changes in fluxes Globally the combined outcome of ocean currents and waves is to reduce  $C_0$  by about 2% but spatial variations 0% to 14% do exist Scientific Opportunities Using Satellite Surface Wind Stress Measurements Over the Ocean, 1982 Scientific opportunities that would be possible with the ability to collect wind data from space are highlighted Minimum requirements for the space platform and ground data reduction system are assessed The operational uses that may develop in government and commercial applications of these data are reviewed The opportunity to predict the large scale ocean anomaly called El Nino is highlighted Oceanic Wind Speed and Wind Stress Estimation from Ambient Noise Measurements Ping-Tung Shaw, D. Randolph Watts, H. Thomas Rossby, RHODE ISLAND UNIV KINGSTON GRADUATE

SCHOOL OF OCEANOGRAPHY.,University of Rhode Island. Graduate School of Oceanography,1977 From ship records of wind speed and 5 kHz acoustic ambient noise measured on ocean bottom instruments during Mid Ocean Dynamics Experiment MODE I it was found that noise records may be used to monitor wind speed and wind stress over the ocean Time series of wind speeds can be produced from noise measurements via the linear relationship found between the noise spectrum level and the logarithm of the wind speed By independently determining wind direction the wind stress has also been estimated and vector averaged The monthly mean stress from the authors data is higher than values computed from mean wind speeds or from probability distributions of wind speeds in climatological records Power spectra of these wind speed records decrease smoothly with increasing frequency for periods between 2 to 50 hours Noise pressure records exhibited significant coherence between pairs of localities 100 to 200 km apart during the spring as organized weather fronts passed through the region

Satellite Altimetry Over Oceans and Land Surfaces Detlef Stammer,Anny Cazenave,2017-10-31 Satellite remote sensing in particular by radar altimetry is a crucial technique for observations of the ocean surface and of many aspects of land surfaces and of paramount importance for climate and environmental studies This book provides a state of the art overview of the satellite altimetry techniques and related missions and reviews the most up to date applications to ocean dynamics and sea level It also discusses related space based observations of the ocean surface and of the marine geoid as well as applications of satellite altimetry to the cryosphere and land surface waters operational oceanography and its applications to navigation fishing and defense

Wind Stress Drag Coefficient Over the Global Ocean ,2007 Interannual and climatological variations of wind stress drag coefficient are examined over the global ocean from 1998 to 2004 Here CD is calculated using high temporal resolution 3 and 6 hourly surface atmospheric variables from two datasets 1 the 40 yr European Centre for Medium Range Weather Forecasts ECMWF Re Analysis ERA 40 and 2 the Navy Operational Global Atmospheric Prediction System The stability dependent CD algorithm applied to both datasets gives almost identical values over most of the global ocean confirming the validity of results Overall major findings of this paper are as follows 1 the CD value can change significantly e g greater than 50% on 12 hourly time scales around the Kuroshio and Gulf Stream current systems 2 there is strong seasonal variability in CD but there is not much interannual change in the spatial variability for a given month 3 a global mean  $C_d 1.25 \times 10^{-3}$  is found in all months while CD is less than or equal to  $1.5 \times 10^{-3}$  is prevalent over the North Pacific and North Atlantic Oceans and in southern high latitude regions as well and CD is less than or equal to  $1.0 \times 10^{-3}$  is typical in the eastern equatorial Pacific cold tongue and 4 including the effects of air sea stability on CD generally causes an increase of less than 20% in comparison to the one calculated based on neutral conditions in the tropical regions Finally spatially and temporally varying CD fields are therefore needed for a variety of climate and air sea interaction studies
