OECD Information Technology Outlook 2010 OECD,2010-11-22 The 2010 edition of the OECD Information Technology Outlook analyses the economic crisis and recovery and suggests that the outlook for IT goods and services industries is good after weathering a turbulent economic period better than during the crisis at the beginning of the 2000s

World Development Report 2016 World Bank Group,2016-01-14 Digital technologies are spreading rapidly but digital dividends the broader benefits of faster growth more jobs and better services are not If more than 40 percent of adults in East Africa pay their utility bills using a mobile phone why can t others around the world do the same If 8 million entrepreneurs in China one third of them women can use an e commerce platform to export goods to 120 countries why can t entrepreneurs elsewhere achieve the same global reach And if India can provide unique digital identification to 1 billion people in five years and thereby reduce corruption by billions of dollars why can t other countries replicate its success Indeed what s holding back countries from realizing the profound and transformational effects that digital technologies are supposed to deliver Two main reasons First nearly 60 percent of the world s population are still offline and can t participate in the digital economy in any meaningful way Second and more important the benefits of digital technologies can be offset by growing risks Startups can disrupt incumbents but not when vested interests and regulatory uncertainty obstruct competition and the entry of new firms Employment opportunities may be greater but not when the labor market is polarized The internet can be a platform for universal empowerment but not when it becomes a tool for state control and elite capture The World Development Report 2016 shows that while the digital revolution has forged ahead its analog complements the regulations that promote entry and competition the skills that enable workers to access and then

leverage the new economy and the institutions that are accountable to citizens have not kept pace And when these analog complements to digital investments are absent the development impact can be disappointing What then should countries do They should formulate digital development strategies that are much broader than current information and communication technology ICT strategies They should create a policy and institutional environment for technology that fosters the greatest benefits In short they need to build a strong analog foundation to deliver digital dividends to everyone everywhere De Gruyter Handbook of Media Technology and Innovation Richard A. Gershon, 2025-01-27 The De Gruyter Handbook of Media Technology and Innovation brings together scholars from around the world to provide key insights on emerging technology trends and issues related to the fields of media management information technology product design planning and digital lifestyle This handbook is about the power of good ideas It s about those business enterprises government planners educators and entrepreneurs that have harnessed the power of good ideas to become real difference makers in the world we live in Keeping pace with fast paced technology change requires ongoing assessment and reassessment of the media management and technology fields to address important questions and emerging issues A major premise of this book is that given the complex and ever changing state of media technology we have a responsibility and obligation to engage in a broader interdisciplinary dialogue whose purpose is to understand the current and future state of media technology and innovation as well as to appreciate the social impact that such technologies have on business education and the general public Forecasting the future as any weatherperson or stock broker can tell you is a risky business But in this book we use the phrase the creative next step as a way to talk about the future and what we can expect in terms of the opportunities and challenges going forward OECD Information Technology Outlook ,2010 Final Report on the Campaign for a Los Angeles Equal Employment Opportunity Ordinance Council for Equality in Employment,1949
