Curtain, Gong, Steam Gundula Kreuzer, 2018-05-18 In this innovative book Gundula Kreuzer argues for the foundational role of technologies in the conception production and study of nineteenth century opera She shows how composers increasingly incorporated novel audiovisual effects in their works and how the uses and meanings of the required apparatuses changed through the twentieth century sometimes still resonating in stagings performance art and popular culture today Focusing on devices which she dubs Wagnerian technologies intended to amalgamate opera s various media while veiling their mechanics Kreuzer offers a practical counternarrative to Wagner s idealist theories of total illusionism At the same time Curtain Gong Steam s multifaceted exploration of the three titular technologies repositions Wagner as catalyst more than inventor in the history of operatic production With its broad chronological and geographical scope this book deepens our understanding of the material and mechanical conditions of historical operatic practice as well as of individual works both well known and obscure social occasion through the ages and a chronology Although all major composers of opera are mentioned and their works discussed the various chapters concentrate less on simple historical narrative and more on the complex development of opera especially on its relationship with the other arts and its place within the broader world of culture and politics The numerous illustrations nearly three hundred some thirty of which are in colour serve the vital purpose of underlining the richly visual nature of opera the manner in which it communicates so vividly through staging and costume and the spectacular way in which it often reflects the cultural concerns of the age Rather than simply illustrating the text the pictures work as a kind of parallel history supplementing and enriching the verbal narrative The contributors are all experts in their chosen areas but all of them have remained alive to the basic attraction of opera its extravagant appeal to both the senses and the intellect and its seemingly inexhaustible power to move and astonish us
