

FIGURATIVE LANGUAGE

Simile

A simile is a type of figurative language which is used to compare one thing against another. Similes compare the likeness of two things and often feature the words 'like' or 'as': "As strong as an ox/ As brave as a lion."

Metaphor

A metaphor is a phrase describing something as something it is not in reality. It is used to compare two things symbolically. A metaphor literally describes something as something it is not. "Love is a battlefield"

Oxymoron

An oxymoron is a term which features two words which appear to contradict each other but make sense of the situation overall.

- For example: That woman is pretty ugly.

Hyperbole

A hyperbole is a figure of speech which exaggerates the meaning of a sentence.

- For example: My granddad is as old as time.

Idiom

An idiom is a phrase which bears no literal meaning to the situation it is describing but it implies the facts or story behind it.

- For example: There is a silver lining in every cloud.

Personification

Personification is a type of figurative language. It is used to give an inanimate object or item a sense of being alive. The speaker would talk to the object as if it could understand and was intelligent.

- For example: Why are you so heavy, suitcase?

Symbolism

Symbolism is another form of figurative language which is used to express an abstract idea using an item or words.

- For example: We had to put out a red alert.

Alliteration

Alliteration is a type of figurative speech in which the repetition of letters or sounds is used within one sentence.

- For example: Eagles end up eating entrails.

Onomatopoeia

Onomatopoeia is a form of figurative language in which words which are used to describe a sound actually resemble the sound they are referring to.

- For example: The ghost said boo.

Puns

Puns are a form of figurative language which create a play on words. They add an extra meaning to a subject and are often seen as a form of joke or to be humorous.

- For example: A horse is a very stable animal.

Irony

A form of figurative speech is irony. This is when a statement made is directly contradictory to the reality. It is also used to convey a style of sarcasm.

For example:

- I posted on Facebook about how bad Facebook is.
- I won the lottery on my retirement day.

Figurative Language Hilary Turner, 2020 This text addresses a knowledge deficit familiar to all university English teachers the gap between students ability to identify figurative language in works of literature on the one hand and their grasp on the other of how metaphor metonymy personification paradox and the like determine the grounds of our reading The long history of rhetoric coeval with the beginnings of Western civil society has left only a few slight traces upon the way literature is studied at the high school level in North American schools Among these fortunately is a remnant of the detailed catalogues at their apogee in the Renaissance of figures of speech figures of thought and tropes This inheritance meagre as it may be is fortunate in that it provides an entryway to a rhetorical understanding of literature describing not what it means but how it works This book aims to improve students understanding in two ways In the first place the arrangement of the text is chronological theories about figurative language are divided into eight chapters each one focused around an orientation in the history of rhetoric Second within each chapter close readings of representative texts illustrate the central idea that figurative language is a sine qua non of literary expression In addition the book includes a glossary of the fifty major figures and tropes with definitions and examples Figurative Language A Historical Guide is appropriate for undergraduate students in English or Rhetoric programs Its aim is not to offer a comprehensive history of rhetorical treatments of the figures and tropes but to isolate and characterize eight distinct ways of thinking about them together with discussion of their practical applications in the study of literature The text combines rhetorical theory with literary analysis it is designed to be of use to students in traditional introductory English courses or period surveys and to those interested in rhetoric or literary theory
