Livestock Keeping in Urban Areas Hans Schiere,Rein van der Hoek,2001-01-01 Livestock play an important but variable role in both rural and urban societies At the request and with the support of the Japanese Government FAO has compiled experiences of livestock keeping from different parts of the world categorized by production systems to make it easier for interested people to select ideas for their own conditions This document presents a sample of such technologies intended for livestock keeping in urban and peri urban areas It describes the livestock production system in traditional sectors and identifies constraints Suggestions for improving production in the livestock sector are given and a literature list is included for further reference Goose Production Roger B. Buckland,Gérard Guy,2002-01-01 This publication aims to provide guidance on sustainable goose production systems that are based on the natural physiological and behavioural advantages of the goose These advantages include the fact that they can consume and digest large amounts of high fibre and low quality feed they are easy to manage and their rapid growth renders them one of the most efficient sources for meat production In addition feathers down and fatty liver are valuable by products while their strong territorial instinct makes them very effective guards As selective feeders geese have been used for weed control in a wide range of crops All aspects of goose production are discussed in this book including feeding and nutrition housing general husbandry flock health and breeding Regional differences in production practices are also described Village Chicken Production Systems in Rural Africa Aichi J. Kitayli, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1998-01-01 The poultry production systems of Africa are mainly based on the scavenging indigenous chickens found in virtually all villages and households in rural Africa These systems are characterized by low output per bird Nevertheless over 70 percent of the poultry products and 20 percent of animal protein intake in most African countries come from this sector Therefore increased rural poultry production would result in a positive impact on household food security both in increased dietary intake and in income generation This study coincided with the World Food Summit held at FAO Rome from 13 to 17 November 1996 where delegations committed their governments and civil society to a global attack on food insecurity and poverty Poultry like other short cycle animal stock is viewed by the FAO Special Programme for Food Security SPFS as a crucial element in the struggle for sustained food production and poverty alleviation The guidelines provided in this study are particularly pertinent to those countries participating in the SPFS where village chicken production will have a substantial impact on increased household food security and gender equity Foreword
