Reading and Writing for Civic Literacy Donald Lazere,2015-12-03 This brief edition of a groundbreaking textbook addresses the need for college students to develop critical reading writing and thinking skills for self defense in the contentious arena of American civic rhetoric Designed for first year or more advanced composition and critical thinking courses it is one third shorter than the original edition more affordable for students and easier for teachers to cover in a semester or quarter It incorporates up to date new readings and analysis of controversies like the growing inequality of wealth in America and the debates in the 2008 presidential campaign expressed in opposing viewpoints from the political left and right Exercises help students understand the ideological positions and rhetorical patterns that underlie such opposing views Widely debated issues of whether objectivity is possible and whether there is a liberal or conservative bias in news and entertainment media as well as in education itself are foregrounded as topics for rhetorical analysis

Journalism James Glen Stovall,2005 Journalism Who What When Where Why and How is a comprehensive introduction to the field covering how news is produced and delivered how news organizations work and how audiences react to and interact with the news media For students preparing for a career in journalism the text describes the range of job possibilities in the field and offers practical basic instruction in the fundamental practices of journalism reporting writing editing and presentation Journalism helps students understand this exciting and important field and become more critical consumers of mass media. It also provides an overview of the rich history of journalism in America. Features up to date examples and discussions of current issues and controversies allowing students to understand the principles of journalism in the context of issues that are familiar to them. Focuses on the importance and challenge of maintaining accuracy and honesty in the media encouraging students to think about ethics and values. Includes both practical and conceptual approaches to the study of journalism giving students a full picture of the field. Covers history in four lively chapters that tie journalism to larger societal trends helping students engage in the material rather than be put off by it. Contains a chapter on writing based on the author's widely used text Writing for the Mass Media giving students practical instruction in writing and opportunities to practice what they are learning. About the Author James Glen Stovall taught journalism and mass communication for 25 years at the University of Alabama before joining the faculty of Emory and Henry College in Emory Virginia in 2003. He is a former newspaper reporter editor and graphic journalist and is the author of a number of books including Writing for the Mass Media Allyn and Bacon 2002 and Web Journalism Practice and Promise of a New Medium Allyn and Bacon 2004. Praise for Journalism I had no doubt as I read the text that Stovall had done his research and had probably had substantial experience in news media. I was in the hands of an excellent teacher Don R Gregory Westchester Community College. The author writes in a strong clear straightforward way that is the right level for my students and that makes the material very accessible. Leland F Ryan University of Kentucky. The use of real world examples and the attention paid to the culture of journalism are the most notable portions of this text. Daniel Ryder Mt Blue High School Farmington Maine.
