Strategies for getting published

PAT THOMSON and BARBARA KAMLER

tion) and ECER (European Commission) and worked in universities as teachers, supervisors and editorial boards, we edit journals, special issues of journals etc. The point is we know 'the writing problem' frequently. There needs to be more talk about it, more public discussion of it, more public acknowledgement of it, more public acknowledgement of the kind. We hope that this book contributes to more open discussion and no shame. We imagine that the reader of this book is an early career researcher or close to finishing a PhD, not necessarily young, but new to academic publication. Some readers will come from a long tradition of academic writing, some from a more recent tradition where they are obligated to publish.

Writing For Peer Reviewed Journals Strategies For Getting Published:

Writing for Peer Reviewed Journals Pat Thomson, Barbara Kamler, 2012-11-27 It's not easy getting published but everyone has to do it. Writing for Peer Reviewed Journals presents an insider's perspective on the secret business of academic publishing, making explicit many of the dilemmas and struggles faced by all writers but rarely discussed. Its unique approach is theorised and practical. It offers a set of moves for writing a journal article that is structured and doable but also attends to the identity issues that manifest on the page and in the politics of academic life. The book comprehensively assists anyone concerned about getting published, whether they are early in their career or moving from a practice base into higher education or more experienced but still feeling in need of further information. Avoiding a tips and tricks approach which tends to oversimplify what is at stake in getting published, the authors emphasise the production, nurture and sustainability of scholarship through writing, a focus on both the scholar and the text or what they call text work/identity work. The chapters are ordered to develop a systematic approach to the process, including such topics as The writer, The reader, What's the contribution, Beginning work, Refining the argument, Engaging with reviewers and editors. Writing for Peer Reviewed Journals uses a wide range of multi-disciplinary examples from the writing workshops the authors have run in universities around the world, including the UK, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ireland, South Africa, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and the United States. This international approach, coupled with theoretically grounded strategies to guide the authoring process, ensure that people at all stages of their career are addressed. This lively book uses a combination of personal stories, student texts, published journal abstracts and excerpts from interviews with journal editors and publishers. Written in an accessible style, one which does not use the patronising 'you of advice' books, it offers a collegial approach to a task which is difficult for most scholars regardless of their years of experience.

Writing for Peer Reviewed Journals Pat Thomson, Barbara Kamler, 2013 This title presents a theorized approach to writing that is crucially combined with strategies designed to assist the writer, guiding them through the various intellectual and practical phases of writing a journal article.

Writing for Academic Journals Rowena Murray, 2013-09-01 Busy academics must publish. To fulfil research output, they must write to a specific journal style and high standard while juggling other professional tasks. This book develops understanding of how writing happens, what good writing looks and feels like, what gets published and what does not, and why.

Writing for Academic Journals 4e Rowena Murray, 2019-11-16 This comprehensive guide to writing journal articles addresses all the stages and recurring challenges, from targeting a journal to dealing with reviewer feedback. Drawing on many years of running Writing for Publication workshops, Murray explores not only style and structure but also behaviours and emotions. As a key component of both research courses and careers, this timely text also addresses the struggle to make time for high quality academic writing and how to ensure a writing-life balance. Examining a variety of approaches relevant to many different academic disciplines, this core text demystifies and defines writing practices and makes this form of high stakes academic writing seem manageable Writing for journals has never been more competitive and writers researchers practitioners and students need expert guidance on productive practices and ways of maintaining focus and motivation which Murray provides This latest edition is completely updated and more relevant than ever for clinicians practitioners and students This book was already a classic but the update makes it even more useful From finding time to write doing a short literature review and identifying scam journals Rowena Murray provides an excellent concise and accessible companion for writing academic journal papers which is appropriate for both students and working academics Associate Professor Inger Mewburn Director of Research Training The Australian National University Australia Rowena Murray has approached publishing in a journal with scientific rigour Following this book s recommendations will make it impossible to find a convincing excuse for failure to publish She herself writes with a high level of artisanal skill this book is fast paced stylish and highly readable Her own extensive experience in supporting journal article writers tempers this book with the credibility of a seasoned veteran Best of all there is a wealth of wisdom here in advising on how to publish Murray is also advising on how to live a satisfying life as a writer Associate Professor Susan Carter University of Auckland New Zealand In Writing for Academic Journals 4th edition Rowena Murray s voice is direct down to earth and wise Drawing on a depth of practical experience as both published author and writing teacher she conveys the message that yes publishing in academic journals is demanding but it s also very possible And that once you are successful there is still much to be learned from reading books like this one and hanging out with others in writing groups and workshops To that end the book is a trove of tips and techniques helpful to all who pursue the challenging craft of good academic writing Barbara Grant Associate Professor in the School of Critical Studies in Education at the University of Auckland New Zealand and author of Academic writing retreats A facilitator s uide
