Fluency in Mathematics Dionne François, 2013 The Common Core State Standards for Mathematics CCSS M initiative and its implications have caused teachers to examine students growth and their development through multiple lenses The CCSS M has included reasoning and communicating as essential standards for teaching and learning The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of teaching reading and writing strategies in a mathematics classroom as a means to improve students mathematical fluency Additionally an interview was conducted to reveal students attitude towards the CCSS for Mathematics This study was conducted in an eighth grade math intervention classroom that is designed for students who received low math scores on the Connecticut Mastery Test CMT The sample consisted of 15 student participants the treatment group is comprised of eight students and the control group is comprised of seven students The teacher researcher implemented five reading strategies and two writing strategies to the treatment group while the control group received no instructional strategies A pre test and a post test were administered to both groups and scores were used for comparison The analysis of variance ANOVA test was used to test the effectiveness of the strategies The result of the ANOVA test indicated that there was a statistically significant difference between the treatment and the control groups The strategies had a positive outcome on the students performances The treatment group made significant gains on their post test compared to the control group Based on the results of this study and students attitude towards the CCSS M it can be concluded that incorporating the reading and writing strategies in the mathematics curriculum is beneficial and can improve one s conceptual understanding in mathematics
