

A woman with long, dark hair is leaning against a light-colored wall. She is wearing a white, lace-trimmed bra and matching panties. Her head is tilted down, and she is looking towards the floor. The lighting is soft, creating a romantic atmosphere.

A Catalogue of the Best Books in Every Department of Literature Burrows Brothers Company, Cleveland, 1900

The History of American Literature on Film Thomas Leitch, 2019-06-13 From William Dickson's Rip Van Winkle films 1896 to Baz Luhrmann's big budget production of The Great Gatsby 2013 and beyond cinematic adaptations of American literature participate in a rich and fascinating history. Unlike previous studies of American literature and film which emphasize particular authors like Edith Wharton and Nathaniel Hawthorne, particular texts like Moby Dick, particular literary periods like the American Renaissance, or particular genres like the novel, this volume considers the multiple functions of filmed American literature as a cinematic genre in its own right, one that reflects the specific political and aesthetic priorities of different national and historical cinemas even as it plays a decisive role in defining American literature for a global audience.

Twelve Guides to Reliable Electronic Design Gordon G. Johnson, 1955 A History of Korean Literature Peter H. Lee, 2003-12-18 This is a comprehensive narrative history of Korean literature. It provides a wealth of information for scholars, students, and lovers of literature. Combining both history and criticism, the study reflects the latest scholarship and offers a systematic account of the development of all genres. Consisting of twenty-five chapters, it covers twentieth-century poetry, fiction by women, and the literature of North Korea. This is a major contribution to the field and a study that will stand for many years as the primary resource for studying Korean literature.

A Statistical Study of Judgments as to the Worth of Children's Literature in a Program of Character Education George Wilhelm Beiswanger, 1927 Literature and Ethnic Discrimination

Michael J. Meyer, 1997 Even though universities and colleges make a concerted effort to foster unity and worldwide acceptance of different ethnicities by including politically correct literature in their curriculums, their attempts to protect students from being exposed to texts that portray discrimination and exhibit racial insensitivity are futile and ill-advised. Texts that contain biases based on otherness continue to be written and those produced in the past remain relevant and still demand the attention of an audience of readers. In order to see the full picture of the world in which they live, students must face even that which is uncomfortable and disturbing. To think otherwise is to create an academic environment that is totally idealistic and distorts the fact that ethnic discrimination has been a potent reality in every society in history and remains so today. These studies in this volume allow readers to meet writers from the traditional American and European canon while also being exposed to third world writers whose work may be unfamiliar. They include memoirs of Holocaust survivors and even record the silencing of Italian women, Apartheid in South Africa, and tribal conflict in Nigeria, as well as transplanted Asian culture in Canada and the idolization of the black body in Japan. The collection permits a viewing of the ethnic other not merely in a politically correct way in which one samples the differences and nods approvingly. Rather, its intent is to offer opportunities for contemplative assessment of authorial motives and goals, thereby engendering a wealth of understanding based on active engagement rather than passive acceptance of the status quo.
