Science Experiments 2025 Open Now:

Innovate to Dominate Tai Ming Cheung, 2022-08-15 In Innovate to Dominate Tai Ming Cheung offers insight into why how and whether China will overtake the United States to become the world's preeminent technological and security power. This examination of the means and ends of China's quest for techno security supremacy is required reading for anyone looking for clues as to the long term direction of the global order. The techno security domain Cheung argues is where national security innovation and economic development converge and it has become the center of power and prosperity in the twenty first century. China's paramount leader Xi Jinping recognizes that effectively harnessing the complex interactions among security innovation and development is essential in enabling China to compete for global dominance. Cheung offers a richly detailed account of how China is building a potent techno security state. In Innovate to Dominate he takes readers from the strategic vision guiding this transformation to the nuts and bolts of policy implementation. The state led top down mobilizational model that China is pursuing has been a winning formula so far but the sternest test is ahead as China begins to compete head to head with the United States and aims to surpass its archrival by mid century if not sooner. Innovate to Dominate is a timely and analytically rigorous examination of the key strategies guiding China's transformation of its capabilities in the national technological military and security spheres and how this is taking place. Cheung authoritatively addresses the burning questions being asked in capitals around the world. Can China become the dominant global techno security power? And if so when?

The Routledge Research Companion to Electronic Music: Reaching out with Technology Simon Emmerson, 2018-05-16 The theme of this Research Companion is connectivity and the global reach of electroacoustic music and sonic arts made with technology. The possible scope of such a companion in the field of electronic music has changed radically over the last 30 years. The definitions of the field itself are now broader; there is no clear boundary between electronic music and sound art. Also what was previously an apparently simple divide between art and popular practices is now not easy or helpful to make and there is a rich cluster of streams of practice with many histories including world music traditions. This leads in turn to a steady undermining of a primarily Euro American enterprise in the second half of the twentieth century. Telecommunications technology most importantly the development of the internet in the final years of the century has made materials practices and experiences ubiquitous and apparently universally available though some contributions to this volume reassert the influence and importance of local cultural practice. Research in this field is now increasingly multi disciplinary. Technological developments are embedded in practices which may be musical social individual and collective. The contributors to this companion embrace technological scientific aesthetic historical and social approaches and a host of hybrids but most importantly they try to show how these join up. Thus the intention has been to allow a wide variety of new practices to have voice unified through ideas of reaching out and connecting together and in effect showing that there is emerging a different kind of global music.
