Applying Local Climate Effects to Homicide Investigations Richard H. Grant,2025-02-13 Applying Local Climate Effects to Homicide Investigation presents the concepts behind using local climate and weather records to enhance understanding of criminal cases While sources of such local climate and weather information varies by country and regions weather conditions are typically measured at airports or grassy areas as part of a national regional or state wide networks using many different instruments The information derived from such instruments and weather reporting services and agencies can inform and impact investigations especially in the case of natural death or homicide cases The determination of post mortem interval PMI in homicide cases is often based on entomological or anthropological evidence in combination with local climate estimations Determining the local climate conditions typically requires knowledge of the environmental conditions where the body is found and the conditions where the measurement record was made Most people recognize that cities are hotter than the surrounding countryside and that lake and coastal shorelines are cooler than fields all of these comprise local climates The local climate where a corpse is discovered usually differs from where temperature and humidity measurements are made Consequently many investigators and forensic pathologists do not realize the influence that such local temperatures and humidity can have on post mortem interval determinations The book focuses on local climate conditions associated with the determination of post mortem interval PMI and gives concepts behind adjusting climate information for local climates at the corpse In addition the book will present guidelines for crime scene investigators and lawyers to determine whether or not expert consultation is needed and whether or not on site measurements are needed Most importantly this book presents tools data sources and modeling approaches to guide forensic climatologists conducting forensic climatology work It offers a basic working understanding of the influence of the local environment on the local climate for forensic entomologists forensic anthropologists crime scene investigators and lawyers Numerous case studies are included throughout to show approaches illustration decision points and provide an understanding of the various impacts of regional and micro climates upon decedents and their remains      *Tropical Cyclone Modeling and Prediction: Advances in

Zhang,2025-06-02 Tropical cyclones TCs can cause billions of dollars in property damage and up to thousands of life losses globally every year In order to mitigate these socioeconomic impacts scientists have strived in developing sophisticated numerical modeling systems to provide better tools for research and forecast communities especially in those coastal countries and regions that are impacted substantially by TCs in the past several decades Recently several accelerated efforts were made by several research and operational centers after tremendous property and life losses by landfall TCs in the North Atlantic the Western North Pacific and the North Indian Ocean basins The modeling systems in regional forecast centers are planning to upgrade to the next generation or make significant advances through those accelerations In this Research Topic the goal is to document the latest developments physics improvements data assimilation holistic forecast systems and their applications Themes include the significant model new features high resolution physics for TC applications data assimilation methodology and observational data impacts forecast experiments model verification and validation Studies on the role of physical processes associated with the boundary layer convection and microphysics radiation land surface processes air sea wave processes are encouraged The model evaluations including quantitative precipitation forecasts and tools and products for TC research and forecasts are welcome as well Novel studies and latest model developments having a research to operation R2O transition possibility will be considered for publication The ultimate goal is to exchange research ideas advances and understanding across the global TC communities We welcome Original Research and Review Articles from development observational numerical modeling and forecasting perspectives on TCs Articles can include but are not limited to the following topics Model development TC vortex initialization algorithm High resolution physics for TC Air sea wave interactions Model tracking and intensity verification Data assimilation methods Observational data impacts Model evaluation tools Model evaluation comparison products for research and forecasts and Novel studies based on new findings and methodology
