Right of Way ,1997 HPLC of Peptides and Proteins Marie-Isabel Aguilar,2008-02-03 The introduction of high performance liquid chromatography HPLC to the analysis of peptides and proteins some 25 years ago revolutionized the biological sciences by enabling the rapid and sensitive analysis of peptide and protein structure through the exquisite speed sensitivity and resolution that can be easily obtained Today HPLC in its various modes has become the pivotal technique in the characterization of peptides and proteins and currently plays a critical role in both our understanding of biological processes and in the development of peptide and protein based pharmaceuticals The number of applications of HPLC in peptide and protein purification continues to expand at an extremely rapid rate Solid phase peptide synthesis and recombinant DNA techniques have allowed the production of large quantities of peptides and proteins that need to be highly purified HPLC techniques are also used extensively in the isolation and characterization of novel proteins that will become increasingly important in the postgenomic age The design of multidimensional purification schemes to achieve high levels of product purity further demonstrates the power of HPLC techniques not only in the characterization of cellular events but also in the production of pepti and protein based therapeutics HPLC continues to be at the heart of the analytical techniques with which scientists in both academia and in industry must arm themselves to be able to fully characterize the identity purity and potency of peptides and proteins Medical Phrase Index Jean A. Gohain,2024-02-13 Over the last two years with the strain of coronavirus having a devastating effect on the world's healthcare system and triggering a global lockdown one question that has emerged What or which infectious disease is going to hit us next Many infectious diseases prevalent in humans and animals are caused by pathogens that once emerged from other animal hosts In addition to these established or re emerging infections new infectious diseases periodically emerge In extreme cases they may lead to pandemics as we currently are seeing The increased urbanization and globalization of the world order with faster connectivity and traveling has further increased the risk factors for emerging infections Despite this enormous progress has been made in the field of infectious disease in the last few decades The number of deaths and severe infections because of diseases like Malaria HIV Ebola Dengue Yellow fever virus YFV Zika etc have been significantly reduced and diseases like Polio are on the brink of eradication In particular the emergence of the devastating SARS CoV 2 pandemic has revolutionized the field in an unprecedented way A myriad of vaccine platforms and highly potent therapeutic approaches have been developed by government industry academic and non governmental organizations However the rapid and unparalleled spread of SARS CoV 2 and its variants and the amount of toll that it has caused to the public health and global economy also underscores the urgent need to develop broadly cross reactive rapidly deployable and scalable therapeutic platforms Development of these novel therapeutic modalities also requires a strong emphasis on the functional and mechanistic understanding of how molecular components in a biological process related to emerging infectious diseases work together Onset of the outbreaks of recent decades including but not limited to SARS CoV 1 MERS Ebola virus Zika virus Nipah virus Yellow fever virus Lassa virus and the ongoing ever devastating SARS CoV 2 pandemic also highlight the urgent need to devise a future proof pandemic preparedness strategy and the demand for a fast and early response
