Presidents' Day The Confusion About This Holiday

Looking at the calendar, you notice that the third Monday in February is a holiday & holidays means a break from school. But, what is the Presidents' Day holiday? It's not a holiday in honor of all the presidents. It's a holiday in honor of the president(s) to come if it's, but that's only part of the story. The holiday goes back to the 1960s.

It's decided to celebrate President Washington's birthday as a national holiday. This makes sense because he was the first president of the United States. Other presidents had their own holidays on Mondays. This means that presidents at that point, some people proposed, or the idea of celebrating Washington's birthday. Since Lincoln's birthday was on February 12th, they wanted to celebrate him, too. The idea was rejected, so the government did this.

President's Day stuck. Since Washington's birthday is in February, it's a good time to recognize the important role that other presidents have played. So, although the

The White House is the official home to the President of the United States where he or she is served.
