Advances in User Authentication Dipankar Dasgupta, Arunava Roy, Abhijit

Nag, 2017-08-22 This book is dedicated to advances in the field of user authentication. The book covers detailed description of the authentication process as well as types of authentication modalities along with their several features authentication factors. It discusses the use of these modalities in a time varying operating environment including factors such as devices, media and surrounding conditions like light noise etc. The book is divided into several parts that cover descriptions of several biometric and non biometric authentication modalities, single factor and multi factor authentication systems, mainly adaptive negative authentication system etc. Adaptive strategy ensures the incorporation of the existing environmental conditions on the selection of authentication factors and provides significant diversity in the selection process. The contents of this book will prove useful to practitioners, researchers and students. The book is suited to be used as a text in advanced graduate courses on User Authentication Modalities. It can also be used as a textbook for professional development and certification coursework for practicing engineers and computer scientists.

Small-Scale Energy Systems with Gas Turbines and Heat Pumps

Satoru Okamoto, 2021-03-29 A heat pump system can produce an amount of heat energy that is greater than the amount of energy used to run the heat pump system. Thus a heat pump system is considered to be a machine system that can use energies efficiently as is the load leveling air conditioning system utilizing unutilized energies at high levels. Adaptations of gas turbines for industrial utility and marine propulsion applications have long been accepted as means for generating power with high efficiency and ease of maintenance. Cogeneration with gas turbine is frequently defined as the sequential production of useful thermal energy and shaft power from a single energy source. For applications that generate electricity the power can either be used internally or supplied to the utility grid. This Special Issue intends to provide an overview of the existing knowledge related with various aspects of Small Scale Energy Systems with Gas Turbines and Heat Pumps and contributions on but not limited to the following subjects were encouraged: wake of stator vane to improve sealing effectiveness, gas turbine cycle with external combustion chamber for prosumer and distributed energy systems, computational simulation of gas turbine engine operating with different blends of biodiesel, experimental methodology and facility for the engine performance and emissions evaluation using jet and biodiesel blends, experimental analysis of an air heat pump for heating service, hybrid fuel cell Brayton cycle for combined heat and power, design analysis of micro gas turbines in closed cycles. Seven papers were published in the Special Issue out of a total of 12 submitted.

Ergonomics Michael Stein, Peter Sandl, 2012-03-28 The variety and increasing availability of hypermedia information systems which are used in stationary applications like operators consoles as well as mobile systems e.g. driver information and navigation systems in automobiles form a foundation for the mediatization of the society. From the human engineering point of view, this development and the ensuing increased importance of information systems for economic and private needs require careful deliberation of the derivation and application of ergonomics methods, particularly in the field of information systems. This book consists of two closely intertwined parts. The first theoretical part defines the concept of an information system, followed by an explanation of action regulation as well as cognitive theories to describe man-information-system interaction. A comprehensive description of information ergonomics concludes the theoretical approach. In the second, practically oriented part of this book, authors from industry as well as from academic institutes illustrate the variety of current information systems taken from different fields of transportation, i.e. aviation, automotive and railroad. The reader thus gains an overview of various applications and their context of use as well as similarities and differences in design. This does not only include a description of the different information systems but also places them in the context of the theories and models which were presented in the first part of this book.

The Gregg Reference Manual William A. Sabin, 1999 The Gregg Reference Manual is a handbook of grammar usage primarily intended for office administration students. Students in this market spend most of their time editing reports and letters for grammar, style and format. With the Gregg manual, students become proficient at editing business communication through the instruction on grammar, spelling, usage and have exercises to refine their skills in the accompanying worksheets. This edition has been updated to include only references to word processing software while eliminating mention of the typewriter. While the emphasis is on grammar, there is some instruction on general office procedures, dictating, filing.
