

WEAPONIZING ANTHROPOLOGY

DAVID H. PRICE

When we think of the word "weapon," we think of guns, knives, and bombs. But what if we think of the word "weapon" in a different way? What if we think of it as a tool of war, a tool of violence, a tool of oppression? What if we think of it as a tool of war, a tool of violence, a tool of oppression? What if we think of it as a tool of war, a tool of violence, a tool of oppression?

Weaponizing Anthropology Social Science In Service Of The Militarized State Counterpunch:

Weaponizing Anthropology David H. Price, 2011-08-16 The ongoing battle for hearts and minds in Iraq and Afghanistan is a military strategy inspired originally by efforts at domestic social control and counterinsurgency in the United States. Weaponizing Anthropology documents how anthropological knowledge and ethnographic methods are harnessed by military and intelligence agencies in post 9/11 America to placate hostile foreign populations. David H. Price outlines the ethical implications of appropriating this traditional academic discourse for use by embedded militarized research teams. Price's inquiry into past relationships between anthropologists and the CIA, FBI, and Pentagon provides the historical base for this expose of the current abuses of anthropology by military and intelligence agencies. Weaponizing Anthropology explores the ways that recent shifts in funding sources for university students threaten academic freedom as new secretive CIA-linked fellowship programs rapidly infiltrate American university campuses. Price examines the specific uses of anthropological knowledge in military doctrine that have appeared in a new generation of counterinsurgency manuals and paramilitary social science units like the Human Terrain Teams. David H. Price is the author of Threatening Anthropology: McCarthyism and the FBI's Surveillance of Activist Anthropologists and Anthropological Intelligence: The Deployment and Neglect of American Anthropology in the Second World War. He is a member of the Network of Concerned Anthropologists and teaches at St. Martin's College in Lacey, Washington.

War Virtually Roberto J. González, 2024-04-23 A critical look at how the US military is weaponizing technology and data for new kinds of warfare and why we must resist. War Virtually is the story of how scientists, programmers, and engineers are racing to develop data-driven technologies for fighting virtual wars both at home and abroad. In this landmark book, Roberto J. González gives us a lucid and gripping account of what lies behind the autonomous weapons, robotic systems, predictive modeling software, advanced surveillance programs, and psyops techniques that are transforming the nature of military conflict. González, a cultural anthropologist, takes a critical approach to the technological view of these advancements and their dubious promise of a less deadly and more efficient warfare. With clear, accessible prose, this book exposes the high-tech underpinnings of contemporary military operations and the cultural assumptions they're built on. Chapters cover automated battlefield robotics, social scientists' involvement in experimental defense research, the blurred line between political consulting and propaganda in the internet era, and the military's use of big data to craft new counterinsurgency methods based on predicting conflict. González also lays bare the processes by which the Pentagon and US intelligence agencies have quietly joined forces with Big Tech, raising an alarming prospect that someday Google, Amazon, and other Silicon Valley firms might merge with some of the world's biggest defense contractors. War Virtually takes an unflinching look at an algorithmic future where new military technologies threaten democratic governance and human survival.

A Theory of Forced Labour Migration Ali Kadri, 2020-06-02 This book focuses on labour dislocation and migration of Palestinians between 1967 and 1992 In particular it highlights the social transformations in the occupied Palestinian territory where Palestinian labour was permitted to work in Israel from 1968 onwards Elaborating on the results of the policy which saw a gradual increase in the number of Palestinian workers commuting daily from a negligible proportion of the actively participating labour force to 35 percent of all employed persons and 60 percent of all wage paid workers the book studies this unique case which embodies characteristics from permanent migration situations not only in the de jure but also the de facto sense insofar as it embeds higher risks and reallocates resources as if it was a permanent relocation scenario Illustrated with tables and econometric results the book identifies the determinants and implications of migrant labour from the West Bank using two broad methodologies the neoclassical and the historical structural method Each of these methods is divided into two branches the classical divided into price determined and a choice theoretic framework and the historical structural divided into dependency and Marxist theory In order to gain a comprehensive understanding of the situation all four perspectives are employed in the investigation In doing so what emerges is a structure for the book which takes shape along the different lines of migration literature The book provides new insights into the making of wage labour and labour migration theory
