Weapons that Wait Gregory Kemenyi Hartmann, 1979 The Development of Mine Warfare Norman E. Youngblood, 2006-06-30 In 1997 the International Campaign to Ban Landmines ICBL coordinated the Convention on the Prohibition of the Use Stockpiling Production and Transfer of Anti Personnel Mines and on their Destruction As of mid 2005 145 states had signed the agreement The ICBL s efforts were in large part a response to the careless use of landmines in the previous fifty years The history of mine use in warfare however goes back much further than the World Wars of the 20th century and includes both land and sea use This first comprehensive study traces the technical tactical and ethical developments of mine warfare from ancient times to the present Beginning with mine warfare s roots in ancient Assyria and China Youngblood takes the reader through the centuries of debate about how these hidden weapons should be used A look at 19th century developments explores the intertwined development of land and sea mines and the inventors behind them including Robert Fulton Samuel Colt and Immanuel Nobel father of Alfred Nobel Subsequent chapters examine the use of mines in the American Civil War the Russo Japanese War both World Wars and the battlefields of the Cold War and chart key battles and technical innovations such as the development of air delivered munitions Finally the author addresses the ethical concerns raised by the careless mining namely the impact on civilians and the difficulties of de mining and the treaties that regulate landmine use Weapons that Wait Gregory Kemenyi Hartmann, Scott C. Truver, 1991 Joint Force Quarterly, 1997 Joint Force Quarterly is published for the Chairman Joint Chiefs of Staff by the Institute for National Strategic Studies National Defense University to promote understanding of the integrated employment of land sea air space and special operations forces The journal focuses on joint doctrine coalition warfare contingency planning combat operations conducted by the unified commands and joint force development Mines Away!: The Significance of US Army Air Forces Minelaying in World War II John S. Chilstrom, In World War II s Pacific Theater the U S Army Air Forces AAF devoted a small percentage of its long range capability to aerial minelaying against Japanese warships and commerce Sea mines explosive underwater devices that damaged sank or deterred ships were weapons that had difficulty gaining the same acceptance as guns bombs and torpedoes Yet with time a small number of aerial mining advocates influenced wartime commanders to ensure the growth of minelaying doctrine equipment development and combat experience Ultimately aerial minelaying became one of the most successful AAF maritime missions of the war and signaled an important role in sea control for the future U S Air Force Minelaying by the AAF had to overcome the absence of doctrine serious questions of service autonomy and preconceptions about naval and air force traditional roles Though this initially unappreciated weapon gained considerable acceptance during the years of World War II mines were not again dropped from aircraft in combat until the Vietnam War During the Cold War the U S Air Force gave little effort to its collateral maritime missions until concern grew over containing an expanding Soviet naval threat Today Air Force capabilities for aerial minelaying and other naval missions remain an important though little appreciated means for projecting long range air power in support of Global Reach Global Power

George, 1992 The recent remarkable changes in world politics have demanded a redefinition of the role of the United States in the international community In this book naval analyst James L George makes a penetrating assessment of the U S Navy in the post Cold War era and offers a likely scenario of options and opportunities over the next decade and beyond Following a helpful look at the Navy s development since World War II Dr George stresses the importance of mission analysis and shows that the service is likely to play a more central role in nuclear deterrence He believes that an added responsibility will be placed on the Navy for European and Atlantic defenses and that its already significant involvement in Third World operations may grow Extensive base closings around the world will necessarily limit the effectiveness of the other services increasing the importance of naval presence and readiness in what will remain a volatile Third World theater In light of altered missions Dr George closely analyzes force composition and the roles of naval aircraft surface combatants and submarines as well as the continuing need for a blue water navy He does not ignore the Marines explaining how continuing drawdowns across the military spectrum may enhance their importance The author considers the lessons learned from Desert Shield and Desert Storm he also probes the unknowns of naval arms control and several so called New World paradigms Dr George s vision entails not just less of the same but a significant reconfiguration of U S naval forces and missions into the twenty first century It is must reading for all those interested in the Navy s future The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1985
