their inter linkage with travelling groups who moved both across the sea as well as on routes into the interior A common concern that all papers share is with definitions of maritime heritage different articulations of social and political power and regional and local nautical traditions One of the objectives of this volume is to underscore the important role of World Heritage especially sites and monuments located along the coasts that have already been identified as national treasures by individual Nation States The objective is to bring these coastal monuments and structures into dialogue with those located across the Ocean for a holistic understanding of maritime cultural heritage of the western Indian Ocean It is suggested that this dialogue across the seas would help in the protection and preservation of a maritime heritage known for its outstanding universal value
