Regional Language Television in India Mira K. Desai, 2021-11-21 This book examines the evolution and journey of regional language television channels in India. The first of its kind, it looks at the coverage, uniqueness, ownership, and audiences of regional channels in 14 different languages across India, covering Hindi, Bengali, Marathi, Telugu, Tamil, Urdu, Assamese, Bhojpur, Gujarati, Kannada, Kashmiri, Odia, Punjabi, and Malayalam. It brings together researchers, scholars, media professionals, and communication teachers to document and reflect on language as the site of culture, politics, market, and social representation. The volume discusses multiple media histories and their interlinkages from a subcontinental perspective by exploring the trajectories of regional language television through geographical boundaries, state language identities, and culture. It offers comparative analyses across regional language television channels and presents interpretive insights on television culture and commerce, contemporary challenges, mass media technology, and future relevance. Rich in empirical data, this book will be an essential read for scholars and researchers of media studies, television studies, communication studies, sociology, political studies, language studies, regional studies, and South Asian studies. It will also be useful to professionals and industry bodies in television media and is broadcasting, journalists, and television channels.

“A Sociological Study of Patterns of Televiewing” Dr. BABAN M. CHOUDHARI (Researcher), Dr. (Mrs) SUNANDA BIRE (Supervisor), During the past decade, the number of television receivers per home has skyrocketed, with many children each having a TV set in their bedroom. Through cable and satellite access, families have a choice of a hundred or more channels, most broadcasting twenty-four hours a day. The videotape recorder has enabled viewers to delay watching or to rewatch television programs at any time and thereby shift the traditional viewing hours to virtually any time of the day The research studies directed at these phenomena have confirmed however that little effect has been seen in children s viewing habits There was simply more of the same programming fare and it was available through a broader time frame The distribution of television sets into various areas of the home and the less traditional hours of availability have if anything reduced the opportunities for parental coviewing and control The V chip was predicted to enhance the ability of parents to exercise such control but appears to have been a failure with many parents not even aware of the existence of such a device

Cultural Barriers to the Success of Foreign

Media Content Ulrike Rohn,2009 What media content attracts audiences across cultures and what does not What does the cross cultural audience demand depend on The author takes a new approach to understanding cultural barriers to the success of foreign media content by analyzing the entry strategies of Time Warner Disney Viacom News Corporation and Bertelsmann with regard to China India and Japan in terms of their respective localization efforts In depth interviews with companies representatives give an insight into how they view the need for locally produced media in these countries The author develops and employs the Lacuna and Universal Model that provides a new theoretical classification of reasons for the cross cultural success and failure of media content as well as the Vertical Barrier Chain that locates cultural barriers in the wider context of legal political and economic barriers to successful entry into foreign media markets
