

cut him a half of her ten-cent cake.

"Eat some more, son," she said. When they were finished eating, she got up and said, "Now here, take this ten dollars and buy yourself some blue suede shoes. And trust me, do not make the mistake of latching onto my pocketbook, nor nobody else's — because my shoes got by devilish ways will burn your feet. I got to get my rest now. But from now on in, son, I hope you will behave yourself."

She led him down the hall to the front door and opened it. "Good night! Behave yourself, boy!" she said, looking out into the street as he went down the steps.

The boy wanted to say something other than, "Thank you, Ma'am," to Mrs. Lueella Bates Washington Jones, but although his lips moved, he couldn't even say that as he turned at the foot of the barren stoop and looked up at the large woman in the door. Then she shut the door.

How is Roger like Hezzy in "Some Get Married"? Early in this story, Mrs. Jones asks Roger if he is hungry. What do you think influenced her to ask this question?

Why does Hughes have Mrs. Jones say "I were young once"? Notice that in other instances she says, "I was."

It has been said satirically that the world is composed of the Takers and the Taken. Would you say Mrs. Jones is one of the Taken? Why do you think she acted as she did toward Roger?

Have you ever dreamed that one day your fortune would be made if you just took a chance?

SOUTH AFRICA - Ezekiel Mphahlele

The Suitcase

One of those days he was going to take a desperate chance. That thought, he would not raise it if it presented itself. Many men had got rich by sheer naked chance. Couldn't it just be that he was destined to meet such a chance?

He sat on a pavement on a hot afternoon. It was New Year's Eve. And in such oppressive heat Tim had been sitting for over an hour. An insect got into his nostril and made him sneeze several times. Through the tears that filled his eyes the traffic seemed to dance about before him.

The grim reality of his situation returned to him with all its cold and searing pain after the short interlude with the insect. Today he had been led on something like a goose chase. He had been to three places where chance of getting work was promising. He had failed. At one firm he had been told, "We've already got a boy, Jim." At the second firm a tiny typist told him, "You're too big, John. The boss wants a small boy — about eighteen you know." Then she had gone on with her typing, clouding her white face with cigarette smoke. At the third place of all a short pudgy white man put down his price in a squeaking voice: "Two pounds ten a week." "Three pounds ten a week," Tim had said. "Take it or leave it, my boy," the proprietor had said.
