Deconstructing Digital Capitalism and the Smart Society Mel van Elteren, 2025-01-01 Today's critics of big online platforms tend to consider privacy breaches monopolistic practices and the deployment of surveillance technologies as the main problems. Internet reformers suggest the answers to these issues reside in more and better regulations. While the questions of privacy data and size are indeed important they are secondary however to a deeper set of concerns about platform ownership and control and who benefits from the current status quo. This book examines these issues and offers an historical overview and in depth analysis of digital capitalism and its prevailing practices as it has become increasingly intertwined with various forms of online surveillance behavior modification and the delegation of managerial functions to algorithmic and automated systems in platform economies. The approach taken extends to the wider array of data driven internet connected and automated systems that involve digital devices and technologies centered on three smart spaces the smart self the smart home and the smart city. Antitrust and other regulatory measures by the European Union and the United States that are aimed at restraining platform capitalism are also discussed. The focus in particular is on recent developments regarding artificial intelligence and their potentially harmful implications. This is followed by a critical look at proposals for more far reaching institutional reforms revolving around the creation of forms of platform socialism that build partly on existing practices of platform cooperativism. The book concludes with a diagnosis of the global situation among the competing digital empires the United States the European Union and China and considers whether or not under the present conditions any form of democratic platform socialism could materialize on a wider scale in the near future Reading Mediated Life Narratives Amy Carlson,2024-01-25 Calling attention to the unseen mediation and re mediation of life narratives in online and physical spaces this ground breaking exploration uncovers the ever changing strategies that authors artists publishers curators archivists and social media corporations adopt to shape control or resist the auto biographical in these texts Concentrating on contemporary life texts found in the material book museums on social media and archives that present perceptions of individuality and autonomy Reading Mediated Life Narratives exposes the traces of personal cultural technological and political mediation that must be considered when developing reading strategies for such life narratives Amy Carlson asks such questions as what agents act upon these narratives what do the text the creator and the audience gain and what do they lose how do constantly evolving technologies shape or stymie the auto biographical I and finally how do the mediations affect larger issues of social and collective memory An examination of the range of sites at which vulnerability and intervention can occur Carlson does not condemn but stages an intercession showing us how it is increasingly necessary to register mediated agents and processes modifying the witnessing or recuperation of original texts that could condition our reception With careful thought on how we remember how we create and control our pictures voices words and records Reading Mediated Life Narratives reveals how we construct and negotiate our social identities and memories but also what systems control us Entrepreneurship Sean Wise,Andrew Zacharakis,Andrew C.
