A Brief Sketch of Some of the Principal Universities of Europe and of the United States (Classic Reprint)

Harvey Lindsly, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from A Brief Sketch of Some of the Principal Universities of Europe and of the United States As the Literary Institutions of Germany are perhaps more interesting to the American student than those of any other country on account of their distinguished reputation and the peculiarities of their organization we shall commence with a description of them The German Universities consist invariably of four distinct faculties Theology Medicine Law and Philosophy It will be perceived at once therefore that the arrangement is essentially different from our Colleges and even from our Universities In fact they are professional schools and are resorted to only by young men who are preparing themselves directly for the active duties of life and never by boys as is the case in our Colleges The schools called Gymnasias of which we will give a brief account hereafter in which preparation is made for the universities correspond very near or exactly with our colleges To form a University then on The German plan all that is necessary is to place a Law a Medical and a Theological Seminary in the same place and under the same government unite the libraries and apparatus of each and add to all a faculty of Languages Letters and Science In the faculties of Law Medicine and Theology those branches are taught which have a direct reference to those professions the faculty of Philosophy comprises every thing not embraced in the other three Hebrew Persian Arabic Greek Latin English French Italian and Spanish Literature History Mathematics Mineralogy Chemistry Botany Moral and Intellectual Philosophy Logic Rhetoric Painting Drawing Architecture any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works British Books in Print, 1924 Annual
