

Exam 4 Study Guide: Part 4

Chapter 14: Impacts and Extinctions

Instructions: Use the chapter 14 reading and lecture materials to answer the following questions. Some questions have multiple parts so carefully read the questions and provide detailed and specific responses. Generally, the difference between a good grade and a poor grade on an assignment is based on whether or not the questions were answered completely. The purpose of this assignment is to test your understanding of course materials covered from Chapter 14. Additionally, this assignment doubles as Part 4 of the Exam 4 study guide.

1. Describe how the solar system formed. Include ages. (1 pt)

Beginning with the Big Bang, which created particles that would later form matter about 14 billion years ago. Within the first billion years after, stars began to form. 5 billion years ago our sun was formed, followed by our Earth 4.6 billion years ago.

2. Describe the differences between an asteroid, meteor, comet, meteoroid, and meteorite. (1 pt)

An asteroid is a group of particles that can range between 10m-1000km, found in the asteroid belt. Asteroids can break into smaller pieces, called meteoroids, which can range from dust particles to a few meters wide. When meteoroids enter the Earth's atmosphere they are known as meteors. They can be mistaken for shooting stars. When they hit Earth's surface, they are known as meteorites. Comets are particles with a trail of glowing gas and dust. They range in size.

3. Define airburst. List the two airburst that occurred in Russia. (1 pt)

If a meteor explodes instead of colliding with Earth, it is known as an airburst. Russia experienced the Tunguska, an airburst that would have flattened Russian towns if it had occurred just hours later. Many witnessed it.

4. Why does the Earth have so few impact craters compared to the Moon? (1 pt)

Most of the craters on Earth are formed in the ocean, where they are quickly filled and unidentifiable. The craters on land are also eroded or hidden with land and vegetation. Lastly, the atmosphere tends to burn up more of the smaller meteors, reducing the number of impacts.

5. Differentiate between simple and complex craters. (1 pt)

Simple craters are small, only a few kilometers wide. Complex craters created a different shape. It grows to over 100km, the rim collapses, and the center lifts a little bit from the impact.

6. Define catastrophism, uniformitarianism (gradualism), and punctuated uniformitarianism. (1 pt)

Catastrophism explains that most of the defining events leading to the creation of earth were catastrophic in nature. Uniformitarianism recognizes that the study of current geological processes helps us determine

ROM and Website A Guide to the Study of Charities and Correction by Means of the Proceedings of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, 1908 Study Guide for Use with Financial Accounting Robert Libby, Patricia A. Libby, Daniel G. Short, 2003 Libby Libby Short wrote this text based on their belief that the subject of financial accounting is inherently interesting but financial accounting textbooks are often not. They believe most financial accounting textbooks fail to demonstrate that accounting is an exciting field of study and one that is important to future careers in business. When writing this text they considered career relevance as their guide when selecting material and the need to engage the student as their guide to style pedagogy and design. Libby Libby Short is the only financial accounting text to successfully implement a real world single focus company approach in every chapter. Students and instructors have responded very favorably to the use of focus companies and the real world financial statements. The companies chosen are engaging and the decision making focus shows the relevance of financial accounting regardless of whether or not the student has chosen to major in accounting.
