What are the characteristics of good conflict resolution and what is the best approach? There is no single answer to this question as it depends on the context and nature of the problem and the perspective of the people involved. These conflicts are subject to change over time and therefore the strategy will also fluctuate. It is important to note that for peace to be sustainable, all the parties involved in a conflict must be willing to change. Other conflicts are those arranged, between the state and its citizens and between the state and other countries. These conflicts are often the result of a lack of communication and trust between the parties involved, or a lack of understanding of the other party's perspective.
