The objective of Video Segmentation and Its Applications is to present the latest advances in video segmentation and analysis techniques while covering the theoretical approaches, real applications and methods being developed in the computer vision and video analysis community. The book will also provide researchers and practitioners a comprehensive understanding of state of the art of video segmentation techniques and a resource for potential applications and successful practice.

Statistical Model Based Video Segmentation and Its Application to Very Low Bit Rate Video Coding International Business Machines Corporation. Research Division, Huitao Luo, Jack

Kouloheris, Alexandros Eleftheriadis, 1998 Abstract We present a statistical model based video segmentation algorithm for typical videophone and videoconference applications. This algorithm makes use of online information and tries to build statistical models for both background and foreground and update the models on the fly. A hierarchical system structure is designed and segmentation is combined with tracking. Two possible applications are discussed to generate VOP for MPEG 4 and to introduce subjective rate control for DCT based algorithms. A R-D based rate control algorithm for H.263 is proposed and implemented as an example.
