Soviet T-10 Heavy Tank and Variants James Kinnear, Stephen Sewell, 2017-06-29 A highly illustrated study of the T 10 Heavy Tank that served from the 1950s through to the end of the Soviet Union When it was introduced into service in 1953 the T 10 represented a return to the classic Soviet heavy tank Although considered a major threat to NATO tank forces it also represented the end of an era All gun heavy tanks like the T 10 would eventually be made effectively redundant by later models like the T 62 which had powerful next generation armament and new ammunition types The tank was gradually withdrawn from service in the 1970s though the last tanks would only leave Russian service by decree of the President of the Russian Federation in 1997 As such the T 10 outlived the Soviet state that had created it Never exported outside of the Soviet Union and rarely used in combat the T 10 has remained a mysterious tank with many of its variants unknown in the West until very recently This study written from original Russian and Ukrainian primary source documents that have only recently been made available uncovers the history of this enigmatic tank using 130 stunning contemporary and modern photographs of the T 10 as well as full colour side view artwork

Community Series in Strategies for Modulating T cell responses in Autoimmunity and Infection, volume II Maria Fernanda Pascutti , Carolina Jancic, 2025-11-10 This research topic is the second volume in this series Immune Tolerance Post Allogeneic Hematopoietic Cell Transplantation Please see Volume I here T cell responses are essential for protection against pathogens but can also be detrimental to the host Therefore many overlapping mechanisms exist to prevent both the development of autoimmunity and excessive tissue damage during chronic infections T cell differentiation and effector function are shaped by the integration of different signals from the environment These signals are orchestrated through a variety of signaling receptors including the T cell receptor activating co stimulatory molecules or cytokines and inhibitory checkpoint receptors Thus the modulation of external signals could impact on the development or function of effector and or regulatory T Treg cells In pre clinical human or animal studies the manipulation of T cell function has been attempted via numerous different approaches These include i immune checkpoint blockade PD 1 PD L1 Tim3 and or CTLA 4 among others ii alterations in metabolic pathways and iii the utilization of biological agents such as hormones cytokines or neutralizing antibodies Overall these therapies aim to convert a pathological immune response into a protective one via the control or reprogramming of specific T cell subsets This Research Topic aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the diverse strategies focused on modulating T cell function that aim to prevent or revert pathological immune responses against pathogens and self antigens We welcome the submission of Reviews Mini Reviews and Original Research articles that discuss a diversity of approaches aimed at modulating T cell responses in autoimmunity and infection and how they have been or could be used to design novel immunotherapies
