Netherlands Yearbook of International Law 2016 Martin Kuijer, Wouter Werner, 2017-12-13 International law holds a paradoxical position with territory Most rules of international law are traditionally based on the notion of State territory and territoriality still significantly shapes our contemporary legal system At the same time new developments have challenged territory as the main organising principle in international relations Three trends in particular have affected the role of territoriality in international law the move towards functional regimes the rise of cosmopolitan projects claiming to transgress state boundaries and the development of technologies resulting in the need to address intangible non territorial phenomena Yet notwithstanding some profound changes it remains impossible to think of international law without a territorial locus If international law is undergoing changes this implies a reconfiguration of territory but not a move beyond it The Netherlands Yearbook of International Law was first published in 1970 It offers a forum for the publication of scholarly articles of a conceptual nature in a varying thematic area of public international law
