A Metacognitive Approach to Phonics, 1988      Development of Orthographic Knowledge and the Foundations of Literacy Shane Templeton, Donald R. Bear, 2013-07-04 This volume unites spelling and word recognition two areas that have largely remained theoretically and empirically distinct Despite considerable advances in the investigation of processes underlying word perception and the acknowledgement of the seminal importance of lexical access in the reading and writing processes to date the development and functioning of orthographic knowledge across both encoding and decoding contexts has rarely been explored The book begins to fill this void by offering a coherent and unified articulation of the perceptual linguistic and cognitive features that characterize an individual's advancing word orthographic knowledge providing evidence for a common knowledge base underlying spelling in writing and word recognition in reading From a developmental perspective the studies and syntheses presented in this volume blend insights from psychology and language study with those from clinical and classroom observations These insights help explain how individuals from preschool through adolescence develop knowledge of the orthographic system underlying word structure in English and how they apply this knowledge in actual writing and reading contexts Implications are drawn for the assessment and teaching of spelling vocabulary and word analysis from primary through middle grades      Cumulated Index Medicus, 1989      In Charge 1 Evelina Dimitrova-Galaczi, Diane Pinkley, Árpád Galaczi, 2002 Scott Foresman English integrates the communication skills listening speaking reading and writing within a carefully planned syllabus of functions notions and grammar      In Charge 2 Debra Daise, 2002-09 Scott Foresman English integrates the communication skills listening speaking reading and writing within a carefully planned syllabus of functions notions and grammar      Education in Languages of Lesser Power Craig Alan Volker, Fred E. Anderson, 2015-02-15 The cultural diversity of the Asia Pacific region is reflected in a multitude of linguistic ecologies of languages of lesser power i.e. of indigenous and immigrant languages whose speakers lack collective linguistic power especially in education This volume looks at a representative sampling of such communities Some receive strong government support while others receive none For some indigenous languages the same government schools that once tried to stamp out indigenous languages are now the vehicles of language revival As the various chapters in this book show some parents strongly support the use of languages other than the national language in education while others are actively against it and perhaps a majority have ambivalent feelings The overall meta theme that emerges from the collection is the need to view the teaching and learning of these languages in relation to the different needs of the speakers within a sociolinguistics of mobility      El-Hi Textbooks and Serials in Print, 2003      In Charge 1 Workbook Stephen

Lerner, 2006 Would the world be a better place if human societies were somehow able to curb their desires for material goods Saleem Ali's pioneering book links human wants and needs by providing a natural history of consumption and materialism with scientific detail and humanistic nuance It argues that simply disavowing consumption of materials is not likely to help in planning for a resource scarce future given global inequality development imperatives and our goals for a democratic global society Rather than suppress the creativity and desire to discover that is often embedded in the exploration and production of material goods which he calls the treasure impulse Ali proposes a new environmental paradigm one that accepts our need to consume treasure for cultural and developmental reasons but warns of our concomitant need to conserve In evaluating the impact of treasure consumption on resource rich countries he argues that there is a way to consume responsibly and alleviate global poverty
