When it comes to firearms training, nobody beats tactical consultant Louis Awerbuck, author of the highly acclaimed Training and Tactics column in S W A T Magazine. In this follow up to his hugely successful 1999 compilation Tactical Reality, Awerbuck gives readers more food for thought on how to stay alive in today's increasingly dangerous world. More Tactical Reality is a book about how to get the job done when the job involves firearms. It includes a decade's worth of thought provoking columns dealing with both the mental and physical aspects of self preservation. Its goal is to make you think about your training, your tactics, your equipment, and your shooting philosophy, so that when the bullets start flying for real, you can perform. With characteristic wit and wisdom, Awerbuck discusses more than 40 timely topics, including why there is no such thing as an advanced gunfight, what makes a shooter battle smart, the mechanics of shooting one handed, when to shoot center of mass and when to go for the head shot, the fine art of balancing speed and accuracy, how to use shot placement to diagnose and fix shooting problems, whether the carbine is the right weapon for you, overpenetration, manhunting tactics and pitfalls, and much more. In firearms training, practice does not necessarily make perfect. In fact, if your training is not realistic, it can do you more harm than good in a real gunfight. Make your training more realistic with Louis Awerbuck. Navy Seal Shooting Chris Sajnog, 2015. Learn to shoot safely and effectively at home to protect yourself or your family. With easy to follow step by step instructions and 385 illustrations, learn to plan your training, improve your accuracy, and speed shoot while moving and clear malfunctions. Plus every manipulation needed for any semi automatic pistol or rifle.

The Advanced Pistol Marksmanship Instructor's Manual United States Army Marksmanship Unit, 2002-09-01

Acquiring the ability to accurately shoot a pistol is no simple matter. One should not assume that the art of advanced pistol marksmanship is fully realized immediately upon reading a training manual on the fundamentals and techniques of pistol shooting, nor completely understood after having received a few hours of advice and instruction from a qualified coach or expert shooter. To become a top pistol shooter and able to produce consistently high scores, one must learn to perform all the fundamentals of shooting acquire certain definite habits achieve flawless coordination and above all have a capacity for the intense concentration essential to exercising a high degree of mental control For this one must train It is difficult if not impossible to establish a universal system of training in pistol marksmanship which will cover all cases one that can be adapted to each shooter s technique or special need Training pistol shooters requires an individual approach There is no single pattern or system for the organization of training that will entirely meet the individual requirements of all competitors nor can one ever be expected This is the reason knowledgeable coaches take the peculiarities of an individual such as experience degree of preparation and fitness and other items into account They use these and by relying on their own experience devise a training program which allows special consideration for each shooter s capabilities In spite of the difference in details technique or method there is much that is common to the training of advanced marksmen that in the opinion of leading coaches and shooters applies to everyone without exception This manual endeavors to present in a detailed comprehensive manner these universal applications Advanced pistol marksmanship training must of necessity avoid the involved and exceedingly complex because it is an activity whose participants form a great cross section of our nation
