Survival Saving Endangered Migratory Species:

Survival Stanley Johnson, Robert Vagg, 2010 Our ruthless exploitation of the natural world has already driven many wild animals to the brink of extinction Among the most threatened are many migratory species whether avian terrestrial or marine Because in most cases these species cross national boundaries the need for international conservation efforts is particularly great Albatrosses and petrels migratory water birds and raptors whales dolphins and other marine mammals antelopes and forest elephants and even gorillas these are just some of the key species that are the subject of this meticulously researched and richly illustrated book Produced in conjunction with a UN agency this book is both an informative warning against the threat facing many species and a stunning celebration of their beauty European Whales, Dolphins, and Porpoises Peter G. H. Evans, 2019-12-04 European Whales Dolphins and Porpoises Marine Mammal Conservation in Practice presents an intimate view of the workings of international conservation agreements to protect marine mammals detailing achievements over the last 25 years identifying weaknesses and making recommendations that governments scientists marine stakeholders and the public can take to improve conservation efforts The book is written by an experienced marine mammal scientist and award winning conservationist providing a unique synthesis on their status distribution and ecology In addition it presents information on various conservation threats including fisheries by catch contaminants noise disturbance plastic ingestion and climate change This comprehensive resource will appeal to marine mammal conservationists and researchers as well as environmental and wildlife practitioners at all levels Offers an accessible review on how scientists study this challenging group of mammals to gather necessary evidence for conservation action Illustrates with striking images all recorded regional species including distribution maps key threats and specific research methods Includes contributions from leading scientists conservationists and members of government and international bodies like IWC and UNEP From An Antique Land Stanley Johnson, 2021-10-01 Life in Washington DC is trying to return to normal after the trauma of September 11 2001 George W Bush is President and Hillary Clinton former First Lady and now Senator for New York already has her eye on higher things One morning Su Soeung who first came to the US as a child refugee from Cambodia receives an intriguing job offer So begins an extraordinary train of events Su's efforts to discover the fate of her father who disappeared during Cambodia's Pol Pot nightmare seem to be inextricably intertwined with world politics at the highest level Just how much did the US know about Pol Pot and his band of brothers What deals were done between Washington and Beijing And in the end is Su Soeung just a puppet of forces beyond her control This is Stanley Johnson's 11th and finest literary thriller yet tense provocative and deeply resonant of our current times as conspiracy theory and trauma once again put question marks over the aims of the superpowers Biopolicy Albert Somit, Steven A. Peterson, 2012-05-14 This volume explores the linkage of the life sciences with policy biopolicy It features two points of departure the implications of the neurosciences for public policy and the implications of evolutionary theory for policy making It includes several case studies of how these points of departure inform our knowledge of policy The Living Ocean Boyce Thorne-Miller,1999 The first edition of The Living Ocean published in 1991 by Island Press in association with Friends of the Earth was widely praised by scientists policymakers instructors and general readers as a useful and accessible introduction to the science and policy of biological diversity in marine environments Since that time much new research has been conducted and numerous national and international policy initiatives have been undertaken With 1998 designated by the United Nations as the International Year of the Ocean this new revised and expanded edition is a welcome and much needed addition to the literature This edition brings the volume up to date and re establishes it as an essential primer for anyone wishing to gain an understanding of marine biodiversity and how it can be protected It provides an overview of basic concepts and principles and a review of relevant policy issues and existing instruments The author defines biological diversity and discusses the importance of threats to marine biodiversity reviews the current status of scientific knowledge describes the major coastal and oceanic ecosystem types and addresses the major threats in each presents a general discussion of the ways in which government and the public can protect marine biological diversity provides specific examples of national and international policies legal instruments programs and institutions addresses how social economic political and ethical considerations affect decisions to conserve marine biological diversity considers the involvement of citizens in developing ocean policy The book also includes a useful glossary that provides information about basic biological concepts and a comprehensive bibliography Throughout the author emphasizes the relationship of human societies and governments to the living ocean and the need to implement programs that will protect ecosystems and species

Yearbook of International Organizations 2013-2014 (Volumes 1a-1b) Union Of International Associations,Union of International Associations,2013-06-21 Volume 1 A and B covers international organizations throughout the world comprising their aims activities and events Fish and Wildlife News ,1987 Exercises for Conservation of Natural Resources A. Stricklin,1992-02 Conserving Migratory Birds Tobias Salathé,1991 Environmental Science Daniel D. Chiras,1991 Annual Report of the Executive Director United Nations Environment Programme,1989 OSU Synergy ,2005 Michigan Wetlands -- Yours to Protect Wilfred Cwikel,2003 Annual Review of United Nations Affairs Clyde Eagleton,1990 Contains the proceedings of the 1st Institute for Annual Review of United Nations Affairs New York University 1949 Conserving Wildlife Diversity Canada. Environment Canada,1998 In 1992 Canada became the first industrialized country to ratify the United Nations Convention on Biological Diversity which came into force on December 29 1993 United Nations Environmental Program 1994 The Convention recognizes that biological diversity is an important asset to current and future generations affirms that conserving biociversity is a common concern of mankind and notes that it is vital to anticipate prevent and attack the causes of biodiversity loss at their source Introd Planta Europa John Newton,1996 The Living Ocean Boyce Thorne-Miller,1999 This is a primer for anyone wishing to gain an understanding of marine biodiversity and how it can be protected The book provides an overview of basic concepts and principles plus a review of relevant policy issues and existing instruments On the Trail of Sea Turtles Bernard Devaux,2000 These unusual and immensely useful volumes combine the best elements of wildlife field guides with information usually found only in tourists guidebooks Nature Travel Guides tell readers where to observe animals in their wild natural settings and provide general information on travel lodging accommodations and suggested clothing and equipment to pack for the trip Each volume features 60 to 80 dramatic color photos maps charts and drawings Descriptions and advice focus on The subject animal s life cycle anatomy and behavior traits Regions around the world where the animal can be observed The best times to travel for observing the animal in its natural environment Safety measures to protect both animals and their human observers Sea turtles can be observed in coastal waters throughout the world including most of North America s shores This book describes eight different sea turtles in terms of anatomy feeding habits global location and ecological status Conservation and Management of Marine Mammals John R. Twiss,Randall R. Reeves,Suzanne Montgomery,1999 Australians and the Environment W. MacLennan,Australian Bureau of Statistics,1996 The report presents statistical information on the relationship between human activities and the environment The new organisational structure introduced for this edition is particularly suited to providing a sustainable development perspective on the subject The chapters examine the influences of people on the environment the influences of the economy on the environment the influences of environmental processes on the economy and society While much of the information on human activities is drawn from the databases of the ABS the report also contains a variety of information from other agencies on characteristics of the natural environment
