Sustaining and Sharing Economic Growth in Tanzania Robert J. Utz,2008 Far reaching macro economic and structural reforms combined with increases in government spending have been the primary drivers of Tanzania s growth acceleration As growth in government spending slows the locomotive for growth will need to shift to increased demand for exports and domestically produced goods requiring Tanzania to strengthen substantially its international competitiveness accelerate structural change and safeguard the environment while maintaining macroeconomic stability For Tanzania s poor to be able to participate and benefit from important growth a greater focus on rural development improved governance of the management of Tanzania s natural resources and better targeting of social services to the poor is suggested Successful design and implementation of a shared growth strategy will also require a strengthening of policy management and coordination in Tanzania to ensure that scarce human and financial resources are effectively deployed

Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Africa Kym Anderson,William A. Masters,2009-03-13 The vast majority of the world s poorest households depend on farming for their livelihoods During the 1960s and 1970s most developing countries imposed pro urban and anti agricultural policies while many high income countries restricted agricultural imports and subsidized their farmers Both sets of policies inhibited economic growth and poverty alleviation in developing countries Although progress has been made over the past two decades to reduce those policy biases many trade and welfare reducing price distortions remain between agriculture and other sectors and within the agricultural sector of both rich and poor countries Comprehensive empirical studies of the disarray in world agricultural markets appeared approximately 20 years ago Since then the Organisation for Economic Co operation and Development has provided estimates each year of market distortions in high income countries but there have been no comparable estimates for the world s developing countries This volume is the third in a series other volumes cover Asia Europe s transition economies and Latin America and the Caribbean that not only fills that void for recent years but extends the estimates in a consistent and comparable way back in time and provides analytical narratives for scores of countries that shed light on the evolving nature and extent of policy interventions over the past half century Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Africa provides an overview of the evolution of distortions to agricultural incentives caused by price and trade policies in the Arab Republic of Egypt plus 20 countries that account for about of 90 percent of Sub Saharan Africa s population farm households agricultural output and overall GDP Sectoral trade and exchange rate policies in the region have changed greatly since the 1950s and there have been substantial reforms since the 1980s Nonetheless numerous price distortions in this region remain others have been added in recent years and there has also been some backsliding such as in Zimbabwe The new empirical indicators in these country studies provide a strong evidence based foundation for assessing the successes and failures of the past and for evaluating policy options for the years ahead
