When Can We Have Game:

Learning Games Scott J. Warren, Greg Jones, 2017-06-16 This book provides an overview of the design and development of learning games using examples from those created by the authors over last decade. It provides lessons learned about processes, successful approaches and pitfalls that befall developers of learning games and educational transmedia experiences. The book includes stories from the authors' lives that give context to why and how they built these products to help the reader understand whether or not building a learning game is right for them and what challenges they might face. It also gives a framework for thinking ethically about design and research when it comes to designing complex digital systems like educational games.

If You Can Imagine It, You Can Make It Sandeep Tiwari, 2023-12-02 If You Can Imagine It You Can Make It by Sandeep Tiwari is an inspiring and empowering guide that encourages readers to reach for their dreams and turn them into reality. Sandeep combines engaging stories, practical advice, and powerful insights to help readers unlock their full potential and overcome the obstacles that stand in their way. One of the strengths of this book is Sandeep's ability to connect with readers on a personal level. He addresses the common doubts and insecurities that often hold people back from pursuing their dreams, reminding readers that everyone has the potential to achieve great things through his own experiences and the stories of others. Sandeep shows that with the right mindset and tools, anyone can make their dreams come true.

Preparations for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2012-03-09 The Olympic Delivery Authority's management of its building programme has been exemplary but due to significant increases in the cost of venue security, the likelihood of staying within the overall 9.3 billion Public Sector Funding Package is very finely balanced. The Funding Package does not cover the totality of the costs to the public purse of delivering the Games and their legacy, which are already heading for around 11 billion. Operational and financial risks have emerged in areas of the London Organising Committee of the Olympic and Paralympic Games responsibility and LOCOG itself now has almost no contingency left to meet further costs even though it has done well in its revenue generation. The number of security guards required in and around the venues has more than doubled and renegotiation of the contract for venue security does not appear to have secured any price advantage. With only 109 000 new people regularly participating in sport against an original target which the new Government chose not to adopt of 1 million by March 2013, the Department for Culture, Media and Sport has got poor value for money for the 450 million spent through sporting National Governing Bodies. It is unclear what the sporting participation legacy of the Games is intended to be. Responsibility for delivery of all legacy matters is shared across many different parts of Government and this rings alarm bells about the effective integration of the various legacy plans and about clear accountability to the taxpayer.
