Surviving In Symbols A Visit To The Pictish Nation Making Of Scotland:

Surviving in Symbols M. O. H. Carver, 1999 This study of the Picts aims to clarify the debate over their provenance influence and eventual disappearance as they were subsumed into the greater Scottish ethnic mix with the arrival of the Vikings It forms part of The Making of Scotland series The Birsay Bay Project Christopher D. Morris, 2021-06-23 The Brough of Birsay was the power center of the Viking earldom of Orkney and is one of Historic Environment Scotland's key monuments and visitor attractions on the islands This publication is the culmination of 60 years of investigations that took place on the site between 1954 and 2014 This new volume incorporates comprehensive accounts of work undertaken by Dr Raleigh Radford and Mr Stewart Cruden between 1954 and 1964 excavations by the Viking and Early Settlement Research Project under the direction of the author on site between 1974 and 1981 a rescue excavation in 1993 a geophysical survey in 2007 and archival research up to 2014 Specialist artefactual and palaeobiological studies of metallurgical material ogham inscriptions and a gilt bronze mount of Insular origin are included together with re analysis of the radiocarbon dates from all sites in Birsay Bay and a re assessment of the architecture and dating of the church and related buildings on the Brough itself The final two chapters put the Brough as both a Pictish power center and the hub of the Viking earldom in the overall context of Birsay Bay and Viking and late Norse Orkney and the wider world between the Pictish and late Norse Medieval periods As well as being the author's third and final volume reporting on work for the Birsay Bay Project this volume completes a trilogy of studies of the Brough itself alongside Mrs Cecil Curle's and Prof John Hunter's earlier monographs

Crossing Boundaries Eric Cambridge, Jane Hawkes, 2017-04-30 Interdisciplinary studies are increasingly widely recognised as being among the most fruitful approaches to generating original perspectives on the medieval past In this major collection of 27 papers contributors transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries to offer new approaches to a number of themes ranging in time from late antiquity to the high Middle Ages The main focus is on material culture but also includes insights into the compositional techniques of Bede and the Beowulf poet and the strategies adopted by anonymous scribes to record information in unfamiliar languages Contributors offer fresh insights into some of the most iconic survivals from the period from the wooden doors of Sta Sabina in Rome to the Ruthwell Cross and from St Cuthbert's coffin to the design of its final resting place the Romanesque cathedral at Durham Important thematic surveys reveal early medieval Welsh and Pictish carvers interacting with the political and intellectual concerns of the wider Insular and continental world Other contributors consider what it is to be Viking revealing how radically present perceptions shape our understanding of the past how recent archaeological work reveals the inadequacy of the traditional categorisation of the Vikings as incomers and how recontextualising Viking material culture can lead to unexpected insights into famous historical episodes such as King Edgar's boat trip on the Dee Recent landmark finds notably the runic inscribed Saltfleetby spindle whorl and the sword pommel from Beckley are also published here for the first time in comprehensive analyses which will remain the fundamental discussions of these spectacular objects for many years to come This book will be indispensable reading for everyone interested in medieval culture

The Picts Tim Clarkson,2016-08-20 A British historian explores the mysterious Scottish culture of the Iron Age and Early Middle Ages whose enigmatic symbols adorn standing stones The Picts were an ancient nation who ruled most of northern and eastern Scotland during the Dark Ages Despite their historical importance they remain shrouded in myth and misconception Absorbed by the kingdom of the Scots in the ninth century they lost their unique identity their language and their vibrant artistic culture Among their few surviving traces are standing stones decorated with incredible skill and covered with enigmatic symbols The Pictish Stones offer some of the few remaining clues to the powerful and gifted people who bequeathed no chronicles to tell the sagas of their kings and heroes In this book Medieval historian Tim Clarkson pieces together the evidence to tell the story of this mysterious people from their emergence in Roman times to their eventual disappearance

Able Minds and Practiced Hands SallyM. Foster,2017-07-05 One hundred years on from J Romilly Allen and Joseph Anderson's 1903 landmark publication The Early Christian Monuments of Scotland twenty six essays explore the current state of knowledge of early medieval sculpture in Scotland They demonstrate the unique value of this material in contributing to our understanding of the society and people that created it between 1000 to 1500 years ago Today's approaches and techniques offer new insights as well as great hope for what might be learnt from future study of familiar and new material alike The essays exemplify the ever diversifying interdisciplinary approaches that are being taken to the study of early medieval sculpture Key themes that emerge include the interdependence of conservation research and access the need for a 21st century inventory of the sculpture the breadth and value of the wide range of the research tools that now exist conservation issues including the politics of how and where sculpture should be protected and the pressing need to identify priorities for action and what is probably the most important development over the last 100 years the increase in awareness of the range of values and significances that attaches to early medieval sculpture including appreciation of context

Farmers, Temples and Tombs Gordon Barclay,2005 For too long the story of this exciting period has been told using the same stone built suites mainly in the North and on Orkney It tells the story using evidence from all over Scotland from simple settlements as well as the great monuments tombs and mysterious standing stones that are still such a notable feature of today's landscape Designed throughout with colourful and detailed illustrations Farmers Temples and Tombs outlines in a clear and understandable way the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age in Scotland. It contains in depth features on important Neolithic sites and emphasizes that what are now archaeological sites were once places where normal people lived. Included in the book are specially commissioned illustrations which show how different sites might have looked as well as a list of Neolithic sites that can be visited across Scotland. This book is part of a newly updated edition of the acclaimed Making of Scotland series produced by Historic Scotland and Birlinn which provides lively accessible and up to date introductions to key themes and periods in Scottish history and prehistory.

Angels, Fools and Tyrants Christopher Lowe, 1999. In the South of the country the local Britons living in the kingdoms of Strathclyde Rheged and Gododdin faced a new threat from the Angles of Northumbria. This is the fascinating story of two of the least known peoples of early Scotland and their struggle for power the subject of ancient myths and legends and epic poetry. Recent research has given new insights that challenge many of the previously accepted ideas of relations between Angles and Britons in this period. This book is part of a series produced by Historic Scotland and Canongate which provides lively accessible and up to date introductions to key themes and periods in Scottish history and prehistory.

The Sea Road Olwyn Owen, 1999. First and foremost the Vikings were travellers the lords of the sea. At the centre of their great sea kingdoms lay Scotland. They settled in Galloway seized the capital of the kingdom of Strathclyde and fatally weakened the Kingdom of the Picts. But it was in the north that their influence endured and even today the visitor to Orkney and Shetland enters a Scandinavian Scotland.

Burgess, Merchant and Priest Derek Hall, 2002. Scotland's towns are almost unique in Western Europe. They do not derive from Roman models but grew from planned medieval burghs. The first of these were founded by David I in the 12th century and includes towns like Perth Aberdeen Elgin Edinburgh and Glasgow. This is the first popular synthesis to be attempted of what life was like in these new communities not simply with regard to houses clothes and lifestyles but also in relation to the religious houses which played such an important part in their life the hospitals which treated the sick and the industries and trade which provided their life blood. Extensive use of reconstruction illustration and photographs combine to create a vivid picture of the bustling nature and wealth of the original new towns.

Saints and Sea-kings Ewan Campbell, 1999. The kingdom of Dal Riata flourished for a few brief centuries but the legacy of that period is profound. According to legend the Irish king Fergus Mor arrived on the shore of Argyll around AD 500 and founded Dal Riata the first kingdom of the Scots. New research now challenges this traditional account of Irish colonization of western Scotland. However it arose this small kingdom held an important place in the artistic intellectual and political life of north western Scotland. Artistic achievements such as the Book of Kells and the magnificent Iona stone crosses are some of the world's great works of art. The reputation of the early Christian monks such as Columba and Domnan spread across Europe as the monastery at Iona became one of the major centers of learning.

Between the Wind and the Water C. R. Wickham-Jones, 2006. Caroline Wickham Jones provides a highly readable and informative overview of Orkney's archaeological heritage illustrated with beautiful photography.
