Sustainability And Cities Sustainability And Cities:

Planning, Development and Management of Sustainable Cities Tan Yigitcanlar, Md. (Liton) Kamruzzaman, 2019-04-30 The concept of sustainable urban development has been pushed to the forefront of policymaking and politics as the world wakes up to the impacts of climate change and the destructive effects of the Anthropocene Climate change has emerged to be one of the biggest challenges faced by our planet today threatening both built and natural systems with long term consequences which may be irreversible While there is a vast body of literature on sustainability and sustainable urban development there is currently limited focus on how to cohesively bring together the vital issues of the planning development and management of sustainable cities Moreover it has been widely stated that current practices and lifestyles cannot continue if we are to leave a healthy living planet to not only the next generation but also to the generations beyond The current global school strikes for climate action known as Fridays for Future evidences this The book advocates the view that the focus needs to rest on ways in which our cities and industries can become green enough to avoid urban ecocide This book fills a gap in the literature by bringing together issues related to the planning development and management of cities and focusing on a triple bottom line approach to sustainability The Sustainable City IX N. Marchettini, C.A. Brebbia, R. Pulselli, S.

Bastianoni, 2014-09-23 Containing the proceedings of the 9th International Conference on Urban Regeneration and Sustainability this book addresses the multi disciplinary aspects of urban planning a result of the increasing size of cities the amount of resources and services required and the complexity of modern society Most of earth s population now lives in cities and the process of urbanisation still continues generating many problems deriving from the drift of the population towards them These problems can be resolved by cities becoming efficient habitats saving resources in a way that improves the quality and standard of living The process however faces a number of major challenges related to reducing pollution improving main transportation and infrastructure systems New urban solutions are required to optimise the use of space and energy resources leading to improvements in the environment i e reduction in air water and soil pollution as well as efficient ways to deal with waste generation These challenges contribute to the development of social and economic imbalances and require the development of new solutions Large cities are probably the most complex mechanisms to manage However despite such complexity they represent a fertile ground for architects engineers city planners social and political scientists and other professionals able to conceive new ideas and time them according to technological advances and human requirements The challenge of planning sustainable cities lies in considering their dynamics the exchange of energy and matter and the function and maintenance of ordered structures directly or indirectly supplied and maintained by natural systems Topics covered include Urban strategies Planning development and management Urban conservation and regeneration The community and the city Eco town planning Landscape planning and design Environmental management Sustainable energy and the city Transportation Quality of life Waterfront development Case studies Architectural issues

Cultural heritage issues Intelligent environment and emerging technologies Planning for risk Disaster and emergency response Safety and security Waste management Infrastructure and society Urban metabolism Sustainability and Cities Peter Newman,Jeffrey Kenworthy,1999-02 Our dependence on cars is a huge problem but the authors argue that it can be overcome and a new form of urban organisation developed They examine the trends which shape global cities and establishes transport priorities within this framework Sustainable Cities Richard E. Stren,Rodney White,Rodney R. White,Joseph Whitney,1992 The idea of sustainability has become central to international dialogues on development This study focuses on cities and examines the implications that urbanization has for the future of the environment The contributors explain how the development of infrastructure and industries poses serious threats to the environment through the pollution of air water and soil Many urban governments are actively initiating programs to mitigate harmful environmental impacts and the discussions show that some forms of urban settlement are more benign than others To assess whether cities can be sustainable in environmental terms this book brings together comprehensive studies of the urban experience in nine major countries and regions the United States Canada Western Europe Eastern Europe Japan Southeast Asia China and Hong Kong Africa and Latin America The chapters examine the meaning of sustainable development in a specific region the growth and structure of urban systems the effects of possible climatic changes on urban areas the political environment within which cities operate and the pressures caused by intense urban use of services and natural resources Chapters conclude with policy proposals for increasing sustainability Performance Metrics for Sustainable Cities Sylvie Albert,Manish Pandey,2021-09-01 Performance Metrics for Sustainable Cities provides an overview of measurement systems and tools to enable communities to self assess and benchmark their progress along a continuum of smart intelligent and sustainable development It begins by explaining the importance of measurement and evaluation for cities and smaller communities as well as future factors that will need to be considered and embedded into planning processes Across 14 chapters the book describes existing evaluation mechanisms that are being used for government funding decisions awards of recognition and new measurement systems to assess what makes a city smarter and more sustainable such as broader sustainable goal targets UN SDGs green cities fabrication cities and compassionate cities It presents examples of metrics used for important sustainability and liveability concepts for cities such as how to measure trust engagement compassion circular economy and so forth The book ends with reflections on the feasibility of a holistic system of measurement and the implications of its implementation This volume will be of great interest to students researchers and professionals of urban sustainability planning smart cities and sustainable communities Taking Sustainable Cities Seriously Kent E. Portney,2002-11-22 Today at least twenty five major U S cities have pursued some form of sustainability initiative Although many case studies and how to manuals have been published there has been little systematic comparison of these cities programs and initiatives In this book Kent Portney lays the theoretical groundwork for research on what works and what does not and why Distinguishing cities on the basis of population characteristics and region for his analysis Portney shows how cities use the broad rubric of sustainability to achieve particular political ends Cities that take sustainability seriously such as Portland San Francisco and Seattle use broad definitions that go well beyond concern for the physical environment or creating jobs They pursue sustainability at many levels and integrate concern for economic development the environment and quality of life across all activities of city government Cities that take sustainability less seriously such as Cleveland Boston and Orlando confine it to such issues as solid waste disposal brownfields redevelopment and neighborhood beautification Still other cities such as New Haven Brownsville and Milwaukee do considerably less to work toward sustainability Portney begins by reviewing the conceptual underpinnings of sustainable development and sustainable communities The comparisons that follow provide a foundation for assessing the range of what is possible and desirable for sustainability initiatives In the book's conclusion Portney assesses the extent to which cities can use the pursuit of sustainability either to foster change in public values or merely to reinforce values that are already reflected in systems of governance

Sustainable Cities Kimberly Etingoff, 2017-03-16 This title includes a number of Open Access chapters Two trends come together in the world's cities to make urban sustainability a critical issue today First greater and greater numbers of people are living in urban areas and are projected to do so for the foreseeable future Additionally cities contribute to climate change in a significant way and must make systemic changes to mitigate and adapt to climate change effects Urban planners face serious challenges in enhancing sustainability but also have an important set of tools available for creating innovative solutions This book adds to the conversation about the place of urban planning in the creation and maintenance of sustainable cities

Designing Sustainable Cities Rachel Cooper, Graeme Evans, Christopher Boyko, 2009-08-31 This book offers practical solutions to achieving sustainable urban design and development and helps designers communicate these solutions effectively to planners developers and policy makers Addressing sustainability issues in relation to the design and planning of the urban environment is a complex multi-disciplinary issue and solutions never arrive from a single perspective The authors use design as a facilitating factor to consider when and by whom decisions that contribute to sustainability are made and through three major city centre case studies London Manchester and Sheffield they consider social environmental and economic factors and examine their relationship to the decision making process Designing Sustainable Cities begins by identifying the key processes and lead decision makers The following chapters develop an understanding of the dimensions of sustainability presenting the tools by which the dimensions can be analysed Later chapters illustrate the trade offs and the relationships between the dimensions of sustainability with case study examples as well as the use of IT in making design decisions Finally the book makes recommendations for future approaches to the design development and on going management of urban environments Designing Sustainable Cities covers latest research data on the urban environment and the interaction between social economic and environmental issues methods of understanding the context in which urban design takes place guidance on the codes of practice process maps to help understand the context make trade offs and develop design solutions that allow for change methods for testing the consequences of design proposals and monitoring outcomes The Sustainable City V A. Gospodini, C. A. Brebbia, Enzo Tiezzi, 2008 of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs In The Sustainable City V many interrelated aspects of the urban environment from transport and mobility to social exclusions and crime prevention are addressed The papers included were originally presented at the Fifth International Conference on Urban Regeneration and Sustainability and will be of interest to city planners architects environmental engineers and all academics professionals and practitioners working in the wide range of disciplines associated with creating a viable urban environment In this book the papers are published under the following topics Architectural issues Cultural heritage Energy resources systems Environmental management Healthy cities Indicators ecological economic social Land use and management Mega cities Planning issues Planning development and management Public safety Revitalisation strategies Socio economic issues Spatial modelling Strategy Sustainable transportation and transport integration The community and the city Traffic and transportation Urban rural relationships The Future of Sustainable Cities John Flint, Mike Raco, 2012 An up to date assessment by prominent scholars of the impacts of recent changes on key areas of urban planning including housing transport and the environment and core areas for future research

Dimensions of the Sustainable City Mike Jenks, Colin Jones, 2009-12-17 The CityForm consortium's latest book Dimensions of the Sustainable City is the first book to report on an empirical multi disciplinary study specifically designed to address urban sustainability Drawing together the various dimensions of sustainability economic social transport energy and ecological the book examines their relationships both to each other and to urban form The book investigates the sustainability dimensions of cities through a series of projects based on a common list of elements of urban form and which draw on the consortium's latest research to review the sustainability issues of each dimension The elements of urban form include density land use location accessibility transport infrastructure and characteristics of the built environment The book also addresses issues such as adapting cities psychological and ecological benefits of green space and sustainable lifestyles each presenting a critical review of the relevant literature followed by an empirical analysis presenting the key results Based on studies across five UK cities the book draws out findings of relevance to sustainable cities worldwide As well as an invaluable reference to researchers in sustainable planning and urban design the book will provide a useful text for advanced undergraduate and graduate courses and for policy makers dealing with these issues The CityForm consortium is a multi disciplinary group of researchers from five universities funded by the UK Engineering and Physical Science Research Council from 2003 07 Rethinking

Environmental Justice in Sustainable Cities Heather E. Campbell,Yushim Kim,Adam M. Eckerd,2015-05-15 As the study of environmental policy and justice becomes increasingly significant in today s global climate standard statistical approaches to gathering data have become less helpful at generating new insights and possibilities None of the conventional frameworks easily allow for the empirical modeling of the interactions of all the actors involved or for the emergence of outcomes unintended by the actors The existing frameworks account for the what but not for the why Heather E Campbell Yushim Kim and Adam Eckerd bring an innovative perspective to environmental justice research Their approach adjusts the narrower questions often asked in the study of environmental justice expanding to broader investigations of how and why environmental inequities occur Using agent based modeling ABM they study the interactions and interdependencies among different agents such as firms residents and government institutions Through simulation the authors test underlying assumptions in environmental justice and discover ways to modify existing theories to better explain why environmental injustice occurs Furthermore they use ABM to generate empirically testable hypotheses which they employ to check if their simulated findings are supported in the real world using real data The pioneering research on environmental justice in this text will have effects on the field of environmental policy as a whole For social science and policy researchers this book explores how to employ new and experimental methods of inquiry on challenging social problems and for the field of environmental justice the authors demonstrate how ABM helps illuminate the complex social and policy interactions that lead to both environmental justice and injustice The City as Fulcrum of Global Sustainability Ernest J. Yanarella,Richard S. Levine,2011 This book responds to the some of the twenty first century s most assuming problems of our times global warming sub national terrorism natural resource depletion and economic environmental and financial crises It finds short and long term solutions to these global woes by looking to the city as the fulcrum for introducing sustainability around the world Beginning with an outline of a robust strategy of sustainable cities or sustainable city regions that has emerged out of over two and a half decades of theoretical and practical work the authors show why these portentous problems can best be addressed at the local regional scale In the process this book cuts through the received wisdom and popular misunderstandings about sustainability and peels away the conceptual fog and ideological confusion about the meaning of sustainability Drawing upon extensive fieldwork in North America Europe and Asia the authors examine both strong and weak examples of sustainable city approaches that validate their distinctive urban sustainability strategy They discover keen insights and important lessons in these case studies for sustainability practice across the globe whether in small towns in the US and Canada large cities in Europe or tiny Chinese villages in Asia Their concluding chapter argues that only the road less travelled holds real promise of creating sustainable city regions around the world guided by the toolkit of ecological and technological conviviality Sustainable Cities Simon Joss,2017-08-24 Interest in the sustainable city is growing around the world and with it come important questions about governing sustainable urban development Why are there blockages to achieving the goal of a sustainable city How is it possible to overcome the practical difficulties that initiatives often face And how can an increasingly technocratic focus be rebalanced with more of a public perspective In this wide ranging text Simon Joss examines mainstream policy and practice and looks at the approaches that can overcome some of their drawbacks The author examines the core elements of sustainable planning and how processes of innovation governance and policy making work together to achieve sustainable urban change He assesses the various challenges faced at both the domestic and international level and across a range of urban scales These challenges include how to resolve environmentally problematic ways of city living at the same time as providing for urban social and economic development and how to adapt the idea and reality of the sustainable city to different geopolitical contexts The author recognizes that there is no one size fits all solution and examines the range of methods available In an era where entirely new eco cities are being built and established ones being retro fitted in response to environmental pressures this text looks at the varying successes of the urban sustainability movement and its relationship to the planners policy makers and citizens who are inseparable from it Providing an accessible account of the latest developments in research and policy as well as examples from around the world this is indispensable reading for students researchers and practitioners alike The Sustainable City Steven Cohen,2017-11-21 Living sustainably is not just about preserving the wilderness or keeping nature pristine The transition to a green economy depends on cities For the first time in human history the majority of the people on the planet live in urban areas If we are to avert climate catastrophe we will need our cities to coexist with nature without destroying it Many places are already investing in the infrastructure of the future including renewable energy energy efficiency mass and personal transit and advanced sewage and waste management but the modern city still has a long way to go In The Sustainable City Steven Cohen provides a broad and engaging overview of the urban systems of the twenty first century surveying policies and projects already under way in cities around the world and pointing to more ways progress can be made Cohen discusses the sustainable city from an organizational management and public policy perspective that emphasizes the local level looking at case studies of existing legislation programs and public private partnerships that strive to align modern urban life and sustainability From waste management in Beijing to energy infrastructure in Africa to public space in Washington D C there are concrete examples of what we can do right now Cohen synthesizes the disparate strands of sustainable city planning in an approachable and applicable guide that highlights how these issues touch our lives on a daily basis whether the transportation we take where our energy comes from or what becomes of our food waste Providing recommendations and insights with immediacy and relevance this book has invaluable lessons for anyone seeking to link public policy to promoting a sustainable lifestyle

Promoting the Sustainable Development Goals in North American Cities David B. Abraham, Seema D.

Iyer, 2021-03-05 This volume presents North American best practices and perspectives on developing managing and monitoring indicators to track development progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs in local communities and cities In 4 main sections the book presents and frames the many ways in which community indicator programs are either integrating or retooling to integrate the SDGs into their existing frameworks or how they are developing new programs to track and report progress on the SDGs This is the first volume that focuses on SDG adoption within the context of North Americans cities and communities and the unique issues and opportunities prevalent in these settings The chapters are developed by experienced academics and practitioners of community planning and sustainable development and will add broad perspective on public policy organizational management information management and data visualization This volume presents a case study approach to chapters offering lessons that can be used by three main audiences 1 teachers and researchers in areas of urban regional and environmental planning urban development and public policy 2 professional planners decision makers and urban managers and 3 sustainability activists and interested groups The Sustainable City X
